Proof That the Soul Exists. From $800 to $500,000. See the Great Race. Found, a Monkey-Man.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

"A CENTURY OF PROGRESS EXPOSITION," CHICAGO, May 29.

MEN HAVE asked often: "Have I really a soul?"

That the soul exists was impressed upon many at the "A Century of Progress" exposition Saturday night, when a blind man, Dr. Edwin B. Frost, director emeritus of Yerkes Observatory, attended the realization of the suggestion, made by him originally, that the light of the Star Arcturus, two hundred and twenty-five million million miles from the earth, be used to start earthly lights that flood the exposition buildings.

EXACTLY ON time, forty years after it left Arcturus, having travelled through the ether 225,000,000,000,000 miles, the light of the great star, feebler than that of a candle when it reaches the earth, was magnified and made to do its work.

If an astronomer, old and blind, can originate a magnificent experiment of this kind, if a Beethoven, stone deaf, can write and conduct his most magnificent symphony, you feel that there is something within the human brain not dependent on matter or time or any mere "response to chemical or other reaction."

DO NOT fail to see Chicago's art exhibition at the Chicago Art Institute when you visit Chicago and the "A Century of Progress Exposition."

See the real "two-headed baby" if you must, and the ladies trained to dance sidewise and wriggle, and all the wonders. But remember that art is long, time is fleeting. Everything else in the fair will be old, part of the past, when art will still be young.

There are no yearly models of Michael Angelo.

CHAUNCEY M'CORMICK, chairman of Chicago's art committee, will receive this afternoon the only picture in the exhibit that comes from abroad, Whistler's famous picture of his mother. It comes from the Louvre in Paris, lent by the French government.

The portrait was painted in 1871, 62 years ago, exhibited in Chicago in 1880. Then it was for sale at $1,200. No one bought it.

Whistler exhibited it in Paris in 1883, and the French government bought it for 4,000 francs, about $800. You could not buy the picture now for $500,000, and Chicago's art committee spends $5,000 for transportation, insurance, etc., more than six times what it would have cost to buy it.

Moral: Buy good pictures, if you are SURE that they are good.

And do not fail to see Chicago's art exhibit at the exposition.

VISITORS TO the Chicago exposition now can combine with their trip attendance at the Indianapolis five hundred-mile annual automobile race on Decoration Day.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, best fighting flier this nation has produced, telegraphs:

"The new racing rules will mean greater speed and safety in transportation; in this race, and in passenger cars later. Instead of carrying forty to fifty gallons of gasoline, which means dangerously unbalanced cars when the gasoline becomes exhausted, only fifteen-gallon tanks will be permitted this year.

"Winning the race demands greater mileage in racing cars, which will be transplanted into economical operation for automobile buyers.

"The Indianapolis race is more than a test of speed and endurance, providing automotive engineers with thorough tests of advanced engineering ideas."

Capt. Rickenbacker is interested in racing. That was his business before he went abroad and showed what he could do in the air.

DAYTON, Tenn., discovers the skull of a prehistoric man, apparently connecting the human race with humble monkey-like ancestry. The skull like that of "pithecanthropus," meaning monkey-man, slopes straight back from the eye sockets, no forehead, the bones inside are ape-like, the jaws have human teeth worn square at the top.

Pithecanthropus ate coarse food.

That ancient person selected the place of his death and burial tactlessly, for the famous Darwin monkey trial took place at Dayton, where William Jennings Bryan defended man from the monkey stigma with Clarence Darrow defending the monkey relatives.

What would Darrow have given could that pithecanthropus skull have been discovered and produced at the trial?

FLORIDA, TO induce people, including the very rich and the moderately prosperous, to settle in Florida, plans to make them safe and comfortable.

Florida's constitution guarantees that there shall never be any Florida state income tax.

Recently, Florida's legislature voted a constitutional amendment freeing from all taxation homesteads up to $5,000 in value. After that becomes part of Florida's constitution, you may own, in Florida, a house and a little farm and say to your wife and children:

"Here you may live in peace. No tax gatherer will put you out."

That will send many with small but comfortable fixed income to Florida.

Husband Refused

MRS. MYRTLE STEARN

WOMAN GOLFER FOILS DIVORCE

Judge Thomas M. Marshall today refused a divorce to Bert M. Stearn, manager of the local office of United Artists, on the ground he "intended to get rid of his wife to marry another girl."

His wife, Myrtle Stearn, golf devotee, testified at the hearing recently her husband was infatuated with a Washington (Pa.) girl.

Stearn had asked for a divorce on the ground of cruelty. He charged his wife used profanity and embarrassed him in public places. She resides in the William Penn Hotel.

Assistant District Attorney Charles B. Jarrett, of 2205 Beechwood boulevard, today was granted a divorce from Marjorie W. Jarrett on the ground of indignities. Mrs. Jarrett, formerly Marjorie Belle Williams, is a daughter of Homer D. Williams, president of the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

Taxpayer Strike Dims Paris Bright Lights

PARIS, May 29.—(INS.)—Paris, the city of lights, gaiety and 24-hour activity, came to a standstill today.

Shops and stores of every variety closed their doors against customers in a citywide strike against municipal taxes.

Even the famous Cafe de la Paix closed its doors and served no customers at its terrace tables. It was probably the first time in history that the cafe had been closed, night or day.

FLAY POLICE IN NEW VICE CRUSADE

Judge Joins Pastor In Attack on Rackets

Leading the North Side ministers in their fight against vice in the district, the Rev. Dr. Ray E. Snodgrass last night charged that city detectives are not performing their duty and declared that detectives "only half efficient" could find plenty of places to close.

At the same time that Dr. Snodgrass was making these charges from his pulpit in the First Christian Church, North Side, County Court Judge Benjamin Lencher was speaking against rackets. Addressing the Mt. Washington Methodist Episcopal Church, Judge Lencher charged that crime was costing the United States, directly and indirectly, $1,000,000,000 a year. He spoke on "The Cause, Cost and Cure of Crime."

RACKETS OPEN UP

It was also reported last night that the racketeers throughout the city had been given the word to open up and that there would be little interference with gambling houses, disorderly houses and booze joints during the next few months. Observers in the Hill district and North Side have reported that during the last week there has been increased activity as the rackets prepared to open again after a long holiday.

In his sermon last night, Dr. Snodgrass denied that he had broken faith with police or with the fellow clergymen service on the committee leading the vice crusade, as charged by Police Sucrusade, as charged by Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide. Dr. Snodgrass declined to make specific charges of vice conditions.

CHALLENGES POLICE

Dr. Snodgrass said:

"I am not a detective. The city employes a detective force and you and I pay them. We want them to produce. Detectives that are only half efficient and on the job but half the time can find plenty of places on the North Side that need to be closed. We have notorious houses of ill fame, conducted by notorious manipulators that do not need to be described to our officers."

Judge Lencher advocated a sane social policy and attitude, increased work in church, community and civic centers and a return to former American ideals as a means of reducing crime. He traced some of the causes of the increase in crime in the last 20 years with particular attention to poverty and juvenile delinquency.

He said:

"If we do not solve the problem by prevention through the juvenile courts of the county, we cannot solve it in the adult courts."

Kidnaped

MARY M'ELROY

Miss McElroy, Kansas City society girl kidnaped from her bath, imprisoned for 30 hours by gangsters who joked with her, gave her roses, showed her how to work a machine gun until her father, Judge M. McElroy, paid them $30,000 ransom. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

JUSTICES HELD IN COST PROBE

Informations against Justices of the Peace James J. Westwood, of McKees Rocks, and Tony Savatt, of Stowe Township, and three constables today were made by county detectives in their investigations against alleged fictitious cases wherein the county has paid costs.

The constables were William Meisner and Tim Drexler, of Westwood's office, and William Duffy, with Savatt.

The informations, made before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan, charge conspiracy and misconduct in office. Hearings are scheduled for Thursday. It was charged 400 fictitious cases were found on Westwood's books and 200 at Savatt's office.

Woman Robbed While Decorating Grave

A thief who steals from persons visiting the cemeteries to decorate graves, was being hunted by police today. Mrs. Antonetta Budusiky, of 816 Newton street, reported $19 was stolen from her pocketbook while she was decorating graves in St. Adelbert's Cemetery, South Side, yesterday.

Gandhi, Eyes Sunken, Ends 3-Week Fast

POONA, India, May 29.—(AP.)—"In God's name I began this fast, and in God's name end it," said the Mahatma Gandhi today as he broke a three-week voluntary abstention from food in the "untouchables" cause by sipping a glass of orange juice.

He began the fast at noon May 8.

Gandhi's three-weeks' ordeal has left its mark upon him. His eyes are sunken, his cheeks emaciated and his arms are thin.

Long before he broke his fast the residence of Mme. Sarojini Naidu, poet and lecturer, where he was cared for was besieged by his friends of all castes—Hindus, Mohammedans, Parsees and Europeans.

On declaring that his fast was ended as it was begun, "in God's name," the Mahatma continued:

"My faith is not less, but more, on this occasion, and I sing the glory of God."

After a ceremony which included Hindu and Parsee hymns and the singing of "When I Survey That Wondrous Cross" by a small party of Christian followers, Mrs. Gandhi handed him a glass of fruit juice which he took with a trembling hand and raised to his lips.

SOCIETY GIRL LAUGHS AT KIDNAPING

Stolen From Her Bath, Returns With Roses From Gangsters

International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 29.—While police directed a widespread search for her kidnapers today, Miss Mary McElroy, 25, daughter of City Manager M. McElroy, laughingly described the 30 hours of captivity which preceded payment of $30,000 ransom.

The popular young social leader explained with a twinkle in her blue eyes:

"I wouldn't have missed the experience for anything.

"My abductors were very attentive to me. They gave me roses and a detective story to read in the basement room where they were guarding me. And they even fixed me up with a radio, an electric fan, easy chairs and a comfortable bed on which they had spread clean linen."

WEARS GANG'S ROSES

Miss McElroy, wearing two roses given her by the kidnapers, was released late yesterday, two hours after her father had paid the ransom to four men in an automobile.

Two armed men abducted the young woman from the palatial McElroy residence Saturday, forcing her to leave her bath and dress.

Not until the girl was released was the news of her kidnaping broadcast, the kidnapers having threatened to kill her should the police or newspapers be informed.

Somewhat exhausted, Miss McElroy told E. C. Reppert, director of police, and T. Higgins, chief of detectives, of the abduction. Her story was one of a friendly spirit between captive and captives, which amazed the police officers.

JOKED WITH KIDNAPERS

Miss McElroy related:

"I joked with the men, and when they mentioned $60,000 ransom I told them I was worth more than that.

"I slept well all night. It did me good to get away. I had a good rest and I needed it. And I learned things about gangs while I was gone. They even showed me how a machine gun works. But part of the time they kept me handcuffed with my wrist chained to a wall."

Judge McElroy said every police agency would be thrown into the search for the kidnapers, despite the warning by the men when the ransom was paid that if police were put on their trail they would "get" him.

Transfusion Needed for Child

Unable to obtain additional blood from members of his family, 2-year-old John Niehaus today lay in the Children's Hospital, constantly losing blood while police volunteers were sought for a transfusion.

The hospital was still to complete the diagnosis of the strange case that is causing little John to bleed from the nose, mouth and ears as well as under the skin. His condition is critical.

The child was admitted to the hostpial Saturday afternoon. Blood transfusions shortly after his entrance and again yesterday afternoon were insufficient. His father, John F. Niehaus, of 210 Edmond street, gave a pint of blood in these two transfusions. No other member of the family proved of the type necessary for additional blood.

The first police volunteer, Michael O'Donnell, of Oakland Police Station, failed to meet the test.

America and Japan

The following communication from William Randolph Hearst was published in the Japanese newspaper Yomiuri Shimbun, of Tokio.

The communication from Mr. Hearst was written in response to a request from that newspaper for his views on "any important questions still unsettled between the United States and Japan:"

MR. YASUO FUWA,

New York Correspondent of Yomiuri Shimbun:

ANSWERING your kind letter—

It seems to me that there are no important differences between the government of Japan and the government of the United States.

I would say too, that there are absolutely no unfriendly sentiments among the people of the United States towards the people of Japan.

There is, to be sure, a regret that the differences between Japan and China should have resulted in war and a fear that such wars may spread and again involve other nations in a world war.

BUT I would say that the best way to keep these wars from spreading is for other nations to keep out of them.

Moreover, it is difficult for distant nations to determine accurately and justly the causes of the war.

There is, to my mind, at the base of this war, more than the conflict between a militarist nation and pacifist one.

There is, fundamentally, the conflict between a progressive nation and a reactionary one.

There must be something essentially antiquated or impractical in the ideals and methods of a nation of three hundred million people if they cannot sustain their ideals and practices in peaceful competition or warlike conflict with a nation of sixty million.

IT IS the first duty of any nation to defend, and to be able to defend its ideals and its institutions, and if China or the United States or any nation falls short in this prime obligation to society and civilization, it must take the bitter consequences.

Pacifism is not always a virtue. It is sometimes an indication of the lack of vigor and virtue. It is too often an evidence of spiritual deterioration and national decay.

Progress through the ages has been made by those peoples who have been willing to lay down their lives for their ideals.

END TESTIMONY IN JELKE TRIAL

NEWPORT, R. I., May 29.—(INS.)—Without hearing Mrs. Louise Biles, of Birmingham, Ala., announced "surprise witness" and "contact" woman for F. Frazier Jelke, 52-year-old Wall street broker in procuring witnesses for his suit against his 28-year-old wife, Mrs. Eugenia (Nini) Jelke, taking of testimony in the double-barreled divorce action suddenly ended in Newport County Superior Court this afternoon.

A deposition by three Birmingham (Ala.) city detectives was read before court adjourned today. It told how the sleuths stood on each others shoulders to peer over a transom into a bedroom of the Empire Hotel to observe Mrs. Effie Wagner Bailey, real estate operator, one of the chief witnesses for Jelke.

Mrs. Bailey, who had testified here to seeing "Nini" keep trysts with a mysterious southern "major" in a Birmingham apartment house, was arrested for disorderly conduct under the name of "Bessie Moore," the detectives asserted, adding:

"We would not believe her under oath."

STOCKS JUMP IN BIG TRADING

NEW YORK, May 29.—(INS.)—Bullish enthusiasm was still rampant in Wall street today.

The stock market added gains of 1 to more than 6 points on top of last week's spectacular uprush in the face of enormous profit-taking.

Trading continued at a mad pace and alternating waves of buying and profit-taking sent the high speed ticker behind.

Commodities followed the pattern of stocks, suffering a shake-out in the early dealings and rallying later. Bonds were firm while the dollar strengthened.

MORGAN QUIZ ROW BRINGS WARNINGS

Roosevelt Reaffirms His Stand for Complete Probe

Developments in Senate Banking Committee's investigataion of J. P. Morgan & Co.:

1—Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, announces he has received several letters threatening his life as a result of his clash with Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel.

2—President Roosevelt reaffirms his stand for a complete investigation of the Morgan firm and Independent Senate leaders stand squarely behind Pecora in his handling of the inquiry.

3—Secretary of the Treasury William Woodin, whose name appeared on lists of Morgan "preferred" customers, reveals that his offer to resign has been refused by President Roosevelt.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCINSON

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The life of Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, former Secretary of the Treasury, has been threatened as a result of his clash with Ferdinand Pecora, special Senate counsel, at the inquiry into financial operations of J. P. Morgan & Co., International News Service learned today.

This startling development came simultaneously with confirmation of the disclosure that President Roosevelt wants the investigation of the Morgan firm and other private bankers pushed to the limit.

ROOSEVELT SATISFIED

It was said that the President has indicated complete confidence in the investigating committee and satisfaction over the manner in which Pecora has directed the probe.

Glass has received a "half dozen threats" against his life, because he objected to Pecora's handling of the Morgan inquiry.

He said the threats, sent through the mails, had been anonymous. He also admitted receiving a number of, what he called, "blackguard telegrams" denouncing his attitude in the Morgan investigation.

An overwhelming majority of the Senate meanwhile declared its confidence in Pecora.

The Senate's independent leaders—such as Senators Borah (Rep.), of Idaho; Johnson (Rep.), of California; Norris (Rep.), of

Morgan Takes Up Church Collection

LOCUST VALLEY, N. Y., May 29.—(AP.)—The senior warden passed the collection plate at the Episcopal Church of St. John's yesterday.

He had had a busy week at Washington, but he returned Saturday and assumed his regular duties as warden just as though his name had not been blazoned in headlines across America for days.

The senior warden of the Episcopal Church of St. John's is J. P. Morgan.

Lya de Putti's Old Swain To Wed Her Daughter

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 29.—(INS.)—The beautiful 18-year-old daughter of Lya de Putti, German film star, has become engaged to a former admirer of her mother, according to gossip in fashionable circles here today.

The swain is G. E. R. Grootenboer, rich Dutch tea-grower from Java, who arrived here on Friday and proceeded to Gibart, in North Hungary, where Miss de Putti's daughter, Judith Szepessy, lives.

Grootenboer is said to have fallen in love with the mother of his bride-to-be in Hollywood in 1929. This romance, however, apparently died quickly when she rejected his proposal.

Later, he saw Lya's daughter pictured in a Paris magazine, and was struck by the resemblance between the two.

Immediately he wrote the girl a love letter and then flew to Budapest without even awaiting a reply.

DISARM PARLEY CRISIS NEAR AT GENEVA

Jap Navy Demand Greatest Problem At Conference

BULLETIN.

PARIS, May 29.—(INS.)—France should ask the United States to grant a 90 per cent reduction in the foreign debt, former Premier Edouard Herriot told the Chamber of Deputies today.

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

GENEVA, May 29.—The disarmament conference entered its final and decisive stage today with the cause of world peace still at a critical stage.

Three major demands from as many great world powers occupied the immediate attention of the delegates. They are:

1—Japan's demand for naval parity with the United States and Great Britain, upsetting the 5—5—3 ratio of the London and Washington treaties.

2—French demands for substantial pledges of security against possible German aggression.

3—German demands for substantial abolition of offensive weapons of warfare.

America and Britain oppose the first demand but hope the last two may be satisfied by means of mutual concessions by France and the Reich.

La Follette Declines Economic Parley Post

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today called in the American delegation to the London economic conference for a long parley as he sought to complete the makeup of the group to represent this country.

R. W. Morrison, of San Antonio, Tex., appeared certain to be a member of the delegation when he entered the White House meeting.

It became known at the same time that Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, had declined an invitation to serve on the delegation. He is the second Republican who has refused a place, Senator Johnson, of California, having also declined.

Meanwhile, the French ambassador, Andrew de Laboulaye, conferred at the State Department today with Undersecretary William Phillips.

Because of the closeness of June 15, when war debt payments are due, his visit attracted attention.

FIRST LICENSES FOR BEER OUT

Beer licenses—the first issued to 3,543 applicants—were granted at the County Treasurer's office today under the new state beer control law.

Harry Kramer, proprietor of a downtown restaurant, was given permit No. 1 at 9:30 a. m. by Deputy Treasurer A. E. Anke. Permit No. 13 went to Louis Amerikus, who runs an oyster house in the market. He said he isn't in the least bit superstitious.

Anke said 1,000 applicants failed to furnish all the required information. They have been notified to appear to give the necessary data before their licenses will be granted.

Three large chain grocery stores did not file applications, it was stated. Under the new law it would be impossible for a chain store to receive a license unless all the directors of the organization live in Pennsylvania.

Steamer Rescues Dog From Iceberg

HALIFAX, N. S., May 29—(INS.)—A large black dog was rescued today from an iceberg off the Newfoundland Coast by the crew of the cable repair steamer Cyrus Field.

Officers estimated the animal had been on the berg and in the water about three weeks. It is believed to be one of five dogs cast adrift when a party of sealers were marooned on ice near the coast.

Bowers to Present Credentials June 1

MADRID, May 29.—(AP.)—Claude G. Bowers, the new American Ambassador, will present his credentials June 1, it was decided today.

SENATOR GLASS THREATENED

Nebraska; Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana; Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, and George (Dem.), of Georgia—privately congratulated Senator Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, for his handling of the inquiry to date. They told Fletcher he would have the Senate's support in anything he undertook during the inquiry.

ACCUSER NAMED

One of the attacks on Pecora was authorized by J. C. Hackett, of New York City, Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, announced today.

Hackett charged Pecora with "irregularities" as an Assistant District Attorney in New York City some years ago. He made the charges in a letter to Senator Couzens and offered to furnish documentary proof.

Couzens invited the proof. Hackett gave his address as 1107 Broadway.

Meanwhile, a review of the Senate banking inquiry's record revealed that the 20 partners of J. P. Morgan & Co. made nearly $'0,000,000 profits in the years 1930 and 1931, when they paid only $48,000 income taxes to the federal government.

Half of this profit was scored in the first half of 1930, a revaluation of their holdings being taken in June, 1930, when a new partner was taken into the firm. In the last half of that year, the partnership reported a loss of about $700,000. The partners paid but $48,000 on the whole year.

In 1931, a loss of $21,000,000 was taken on January 3, through a revaluation of holdings. This loss was written on the books. The partnership, however, made nearly $5,000,000 profits during the remainder of the year but paid no taxes, since the $21,000,000 "revaluation loss" eliminated the necessity of paying income taxes.

Woodin Offer To Resign Treasury Job Refused

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(INS.)—Denying he had resigned because of the revelations of the Senate's Morgan quiz, and indicating he desired early return to private life, Secretary of the Treasury William Woodin was back at his post today after a week-end cruise with President Roosevelt, aboard the Commerce Department yacht Sequoia.

Questioned following his return from the holiday trip, Woodin avoided direct questions and said simply:

"I have not resigned."

He also made it clear that he hoped to be free to return to private life, a wish he has often expressed, even before his name was revealed in a list of favored clients of the House of Morgan.

Woodin, former president of the American Car and Foundry Company, is known to have offered to resign, but his offer to quit has been refused.

Probe of Norman Davis Opposed in House

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP.)—Representative Treadway, (Rep.), of Massachusetts, in the House today took issue with the proposal of Representative Tinkham, (Rep.), of Massachusetts, for a Congressional investigation of Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large in Europe.

Treadway challenged the contention by Tinkham that Congress should look into acts by Davis, whose name was among those loaned money and favored by Morgan with securities at bargain prices. Treadway said:

"Norman H. Davis' life is an open book. He is a highly regarded citizen. The fact that he has borrowed money is of no consequence."

California Vets Honor W. R. Hearst

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—(Universal.)—By unanimous action, San Francisco Post No. 58, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, cited the services of William Randolph Hearst and the Hearst newspapers to the cause of veterans of all wars.

Mr. Hearst, after being named an honorary life member of the post, was officially invited to address the convention of the California and Nevada departments of the organization at Las Vegas, Nev., which starts June 4.

HIGH COURT HITS TRUST FUNDS

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(INS.)—Dividing six to three, the Supreme Court today ruled that wealthy persons cannot escape income and inheritance taxes by creating trust funds, the income of which is used to pay life insurance policy premiums.

Two decisions were given in cases involving trusts established by Irene E. E. du Pont, wealthy Wilmington, Del., industrialist, and Frederick B. Wells, of Minneapolis.

Justices Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler dissented.

The case involved a serious income tax question since the premiums of more than $4,000,000,000 of life insurance is paid through trust funds.

Greensburg Strikers Debate Pay Increase

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 29.—A committee representing 150 girl strikers of Greensburg Garment Company today took under advisement the offer of a 10 per cent wage increase effective July 1, in answer to demands for a 25 per cent boost in wages.

D. G. Keller, plant manager and owner, met committee today. He told girls he would give 10 per cent increase and more as business conditions warranted.

GOLD REPEAL BILL UP IN HOUSE

Hoarding and Flight Of Capital Cited In Report

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The administration's bill repealing the gold clause in contracts—past and future—was called up in the House today with Democratic leaders predicting passage.

Representative Steagall (Dem.), of Alabama, chairman of the Banking Committee, declared the legislation is necessary in the present emergency, which has been marked by gold hoarding and a tendency of capital to leave the country.

The situation makes it impossible for the government to carry out its constitutional duty to create a currency and determine the value, said a report written by the Treasury department.

Representative Luce (Rep.), of Massachusetts, filed a minority report in which he declared the gold clause repeal bill should be known as "the repudiation bill of 1933."

Senator Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, was seeking an opportunity for Senate action before the Morgan investigation is resumed Wednesday.

The bill, the House report said, accomplishes three purposes:

1—Repealing gold clauses.

2—Providing that all obligations can be paid in legal tender, and prohibiting future obligations from providing payment in any specific coin or currency, and

3—Making technical amendments to the Thomas amendment.

The report declared there can be no constitutional objection to the legislation. It is based, the report said, on the constitutional powers of Congress to issue currency and determine its value.

PINCHOT SILENT ON KEPHART

MILFORD, Pa., May 29.—(INS.)—Gov. Pinchot, vacationing at his estate here, today declined to give any intimation of his future course of action against Justices John W. Kephart and William I. Schaffer, of the State Supreme Court, whose resignations he demanded Saturday.

HARRISBURG, May 29.—(AP.)—Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, today urged Gov. Pinchot to call an immediate special session of the Legislature to consider impeachment of Supreme Court Justices William I. Schaffer and John W. Kephart, whose names appear on the J. P. Morgan "preferred customer" list.

Van Dyke said he was speaking only for himself and that he has not discussed the proposed impeachment with members of the Democratic State Committee or Democratic members of the Legislature.

Clear, Cool Forecast For Memorial Day

Clear, cool weather was predicted for tomorrow, Memorial Day, by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. The day will be ideal for motor trips and picnics, he said.

Showers this afternoon hung up a new record for the wettest May, previously held by 1889 with a total rainfall of 6.45 inches. This month's rain with today's fall is 6.47 inches. More rain is predicted tonight.

When It's Paytime Down in Wall Street

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

There are some who sing of Maytime,
There are some who sing of June,
But, the sweetest time is paytime,
When the politicians croon.

By the cozy marble cottage,
At the turn of Broad and Wall,
They await their mess of pottage,
In the springtime or the fall.

You can always hear them singing,
Underneath the window pane,
You can hear their voices ringing,
In a sad and sweet refrain:

"I will love you in the daytime,
In the nighttime I'll be true,
And especially in paytime,
I'll reciprocate with you."

CONGRESS TOILS TOWARD CLOSE

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(INS.)—A groggy Congress, almost "out on its feet," toiled wearily today to complete the gigantic legislative task thrust upon it by President Roosevelt.

Senate and House leaders held strong hope that the terrific pace set when the President convened the special session, and continued without a moment's letup, would end not later than June 10.

Senate and House conferees met to compose their differences on the Glass-Steagal banking reform bill, originated in the Senate and House Banking Committees.

The Senate had before it as unfinished business the independent offices appropriation measure. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, declared:

"We should dispose of it today."

The Senate was slated to take up the President's industrial recovery bill late in the week. Senate champions of a general manufacturers' sales tax were ready to urge a broad-base levy in lieu of the income tax increases voted by the House.

SENATE PUSHES HARRIMAN QUIZ

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP.)—The Senate Judiciary Committee decided today to ask the Senate for additional funds to carry on its inquiry into delay in prosecution of Joseph W. Harriman, New York banker.

The committee agreed to ask the Senate to double the original appropriation of $500 for the inquiry into many months of delay in prosecuting Harriman, former president of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, on charges of falsifying accounts.

One of the purposes of the additional money is understood to be to enable the committee to inquire into a pool through which most of the bank's directors dealt in stock of the institution.

Trial of Harriman Postponed for Week

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP.)—Trial of Joseph W. Harriman on charges of falsifying the books of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, which he headed, was postponed today until next Monday.

Harriman is recovering from a stab wound he inflicted 10 days ago in a suicide attempt.

FIREMAN SEIZES FLEEING BANDIT

What does a fireman do with his spare time?

Well, he seems to play policeman. At least William Kaufman, 32, does—and very successfully.

Kaufman, off duty, saw a man fleeing from the Patton drug store at 2105 Perrysville avenue, gave chase and captured him. The drug store clerk, W. C. Agnew, 25, said the prisoner, Thomas Gainer, 37, had just tried unsuccessfully to hold him up.

In North Side Police Court today Gainer also was identified in a chain store holdup and the theft of an auto. He denied all charges but admitted having escaped last year from a penitentiary at Huntsville, Tex. He was held for investigation.

In the cellar of his home at 124 South Negley avenue last midnight, F. H. Bender was confronted by an armed Negro. The man escaped.

Two gunmen bound and gagged Ralph Blackman night watchman, in the Dixon Motor Company office at 109 West Montgomery avenue, North Side and emptied the safe after knocking off the lock.

EIGHT STATES VOTE REPEAL

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP.)—Eight states thus far have voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

And, under present plans, a total of 32 will have recorded a decision by November 7 on whether they wish to continue the amendment.

Ratification by 36 states is required before repeal can take effect.

States favoring repeal to date are: Michigan, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Wyoming, New York, Delaware and Nevada.

Eight more are to vote by July 1: Illinois, June 5; Indiana, June 6; Massachusetts, June 13; Connecticut, New Hampshire and Iowa, June 20; California and West Virginia, June 27.

State Drys Meet To Pick Candidates

HARRISBURG, May 29.—(AP.)—United prohibitionists from each of Pennsylvania's 67 counties meet today in their campaign for retention of national prohibition, selecting 15 dry candidates for delegates-at-large to the state repeal ratification convention.

From names presented by representatives from each county where the preliminary work has been going on for months, the state meeting brings delegates to whom the prohibitionists promise support.

McBride Raps Repeal As Loan Shark Deal

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 29.—Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, speaking here yesterday, charged the Democratic party and the Roosevelt administration with evasion of its platform. He termed the proposed repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment for liquor revenue as the "most colossal loan shark transaction in American history."

Harriman to Speak At Chamber Meet

Henry K. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Merle Thorpe, editor of Nations Business, will be guests of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon Friday. Harriman will discuss "The Industrial Control Bill and Its Implications."

123 MAROONED ALL NIGHT AS SHIP SINKS

Land on Reef After Lake Liner Crashes In Fog

International News Service.

HOUGHTON, Mich., May 29.—The passenger liner George M. Cox lay with her stern on the rocky bottom of Lake Superior today while 123 persons who were aboard her, recovered from the effects of a night spent on the wind swept reefs of Isle Royale.

No lives were lost, but six persons were reported injured, when the 260-foot ship tore her hull on the treacherous reef and sank Saturday night. Among those reported hurt was George M. Cox, of New Orleans, president of the Isle Royale Transit Company, owners of the vessel.

Capt. Johnson said the reconditioned craft which had been christened only last Wednesday, ploughed into the reef in a fog.

Only the calmness of the sea and the courage of the passengers and crew prevented heavy loss of life, Capt. Johnson said.

One Drowned, 15 Imperiled As Explosion Ruins Boat

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., May 29.—(AP.)—One man drowned and 15 others leaped into the St. Lawrence River to save their lives, as a fire following an explosion early today destroyed a drill boat working near Chippewa Bay.

The boat had been built to replace a similar one, the America, destroyed by explosion in July of last year at the same scene, with a loss of seven lives and the injury of 17 others.

THREE VESSELS FLASH SOS

SAN PEDRO, Cal., May 29.—(AP.)—Only minor damage may result from what appeared for a time as a possible major sea disaster near Point Hondo, notorious as a "graveyard" for vessels in the Eastern Pacific.

SOS calls sent three Coast Guard vessels speeding to the assistance of the Nippon Maru last night, only to find the Japanese oil tanker beached safely on a small island a half mile off Point Hondo.

The other two boats momentarily in danger were the Chehalis and the J. D. Stetson, lumber schooners, which collided. Best available reports said that the Stetson proceeded on its course while the Chehalis was beached about four miles below Point Conception, which is, perhaps, 15 miles from the place where the Japanese ship went ashore.

BANK BANDITS KILL SLEUTH

RENSSELAER, N. Y., May 29 (AP.)—Surprised by police when in the act of holding up the Rensselaer County Bank just before noon today, six bandits shot their way out of the institution, killed one detective and fled with $2,000 in a waiting automobile.

The holdup occurred a few hours after police were warned in a police message from Lee, Mass., to be on the lookout for Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, 28, notorious Oklahoma outlaw, wanted there for bank robbery and in Ohio for murder. On that lead police spread a net for Floyd.

PARIS, Ark., May 29.—(AP.)—Andy Connaughton, city marshal, and Dolph Guthrie, bank teller, were seriously wounded, one bandit was captured and a second escaped with an unestimated amount of money in a daylight raid on the First National Bank here today.

CULVER, Ind., May 29.—(INS.)—Three of five masked bandits who robbed the State Exchange Bank here of $16,000 today were captured after a gun fight a few miles west of here.

'They Can't Stop Me,' Pecora Declares

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP.)—The muscles of Ferdinand Pecora's jutting jaw hardened as strong teeth clamped on a black cigar; under a bronze forehead eyes gleamed.

Suddenly the cigar, released and mangled, swept downward between thumb and forefinger. Then said the inquisitor of J. P. Morgan and other mighty men of money:

"My record is there for them! They are welcome to search for any flaws—or worse."

By "they" Pecora referred to unnamed persons who, Senator Couzens, of Michigan, charges, are conducting a "subtle campaign" to discredit Pecora in his work as counsel for the Senate committee investigating banking practices.

Pecora, a former immigrant boy, who got his start as inquisitor during 12 years in the New York County District Attorney's office, bade defiance to critics and said the disclosures at Washington, which have built headlines around the world, would go on. He declared:

"Anyone who imagines that our inquiry, with its sinister correlated problems extending into business and professional life, will be halted by a threat to investigate the investigator, is mistaken."

Pecora told reporters emphatically that he was seeking no public office. He said:

"I haven't even the mayoralty or any other job in mind. If I'm being groomed for Mayor, who's grooming me?"

Raise Cross to Nazi Hero Executed by French

DUSSELDORF, Germany, May 29.—(AP.)—A gaunt, black wooden cross stood today on Golzheim Heath, symbolizing to the German nation the death of Albert Schlageter, executed by the French 10 years ago during the Ruhr occupation and now proclaimed the Nazi national hero.

A great throng, including 300,000 Nazi Brownshirts and members of the Steel Helmet war veterans' organization, gathered yesterday at the foot of the memorial as the final event of a three-day series of observances.

Capt. Hermann Goering, right-hand cabinet associate of Chancellor Hitler, memorialized the 29-year-old officer as "the last soldier of the World War and the first soldier of the Third Reich."

Schlageter organized and directed so-called "destruction committees" during the French occupation of the district.

The young officer and some companions were arrested. Schlageter was convicted of sabotage after a two-day trial and sentenced to death on May 10. Jailed to death on May 10.

Chancellor Hitler did not attend yesterday's services, but sent a wreath.

COUNTY PAYING WAR HEROES HOMAGE

Parades and Cemetery Services Tomorrow Climax Tribute

Allegheny County's tribute to its soldier dead, which began yesterday with services in churches and cemeteries throughout the county, will be climaxed tomorrow when almost every community will pay tribute to its heroes in memorial services. Today there were special programs in the schools.

Beginning at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow there will be parades of war veterans, with the aged "boys in blue" as honored guests. Among city and county officials and war veterans to speak at the ceremonies will be Mayor John S. Herron, Maj. Gen. Aledbert Cronkhite, Judge Ralph H. Smith, Brig. Gen. Edward Martin, County Controller Robert G. Woodside, Judge James H. Gray and Judge W. Heber Dithrich.

WILKINSBURG PARADE

Wilkinsburg plans a community celebration at 10:15 a. m., with a parade starting at 9:30, to the Woodlawn Cemetery, where the Rev. Orva Lee Ice will speak.

Mayor Herron will speak at the services in Calvary Cemetery, Hazelwood, at 10 o'clock. The services will be under the auspices of Martin O'Donnell Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Judge Smith will speak at the same hour in Chartiers Cemetery, Carnegie, and again at 11 o'clock in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery.

A parade through the communities, with ceremonies in Homestead and St. Mary's Cemeteries, will be held by residents of Homestead, West Homestead, Munhall, Whitaker and Mifflin Township tomorrow morning. Judge George V. Moore will speak in the Homestead ceremony and Paul Barthol, past commander of American Legion Post No. 60, in St. Mary's Cemetery.

HONOR ARSENAL VICTIMS

Among the pre-Memorial Day services held yesterday were services for the 83 women who lost their lives in the arsenal explosion of 1862. The services were held in Allegheny Cemetery by the Collier Auxiliary with the Rev. O. W. Bolton, pastor of Grace Methodist Protestant Church, Sharpsburg, as the speaker.

Judge Smith delivered the principal address yesterday at services in Balph Park, Bellevue, held by veterans' organizations of the borough and other North Boroughs communities. Maj. Gen. Cronkhite also was present.

County Court Judge Benjamin Lencher spoke at the services held in the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth field artillery armory by the One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry. The regiment's gold star mothers and women's auxiliary also participated.

Maj. Gen. Cronkhite spoke in St. Martin's Cemetery, Carnegie, at services held by Albert G. Baker Post No. 86, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Services for Spanish-American War soldiers were held in the 176th field artillery armory by the 111th Infantry. The regiment's gold star mothers and women's auxiliary also participated.

COUNTY WARDS' PARENTS FAIL TO PAY KEEP

Juvenile Bench Aides Lax in Collecting, Audit Indicates

Failure of Juvenile Court workers to press collections from parents and relatives for maintenance of wards has cost Allegheny County taxpayers more than $188,000 during the last three years, a check-up on recent audits indicates. The $10,000 a week which the taxpayers must pay to "farm out" approximately 2,000 wards has been hit by Commissioner C. M. Barr in his stand for construction of a cottage plan home for the wards.

County Court judges in the years 1930, 1931 and 1932 have made orders on the parents and relatives of wards for the payment of more than $210,753 toward maintenance of the children, but due to lax methods of collections in the Juvenile Court branch, county officials charge, only $22,444 has been collected.

LARGE SUM LOST

More than $188,308 is still uncollected for the three years, it was said at the offices of the Controller and County Commissioners.

The charges that court workers were lax in their collections was made as the County Court judges announced they would meet Wednesday to consider action as a result of the reports on brutality and abuse. It is likely that the meeting will be with the County Commissioners and that judges will be given details of reports of abuse submitted by the Commissioners' investigators.

It also is likely the judges will give some consideration to the charge that they failed to dismiss visitation officers recommended for discharge by the head of the probation and visitation staffs.

CLAIM RELATIVES POOR

Unemployment of parents or relatives was given by Miss Grace Stoakes, chief probation officer of Juvenile Court, as the principal cause for lack of collections. The parents or relatives in most juvenile cases are in straitened financial condition even in normal times, she pointed out. The court orders weekly payments many times from persons known to be unable to pay, Miss Stoakes said. This practice is chiefly used to keep a better hold on the responsible person.

Personal calls for collections generally are necessary, since very few of the persons can afford telephones. Mailing of notices is also without results in many cases because the person through lack of finances has moved and to evade all collectors fail to leave forwarding addresses, she said. Where the responsible person is found to have employment and refuses to pay, the court has passed workhouse sentences so the daily 65 cents can be collected by the Juvenile Court authorities, she added.

Leo A. Riordan, who is conducting the investigation of foster homes for the County Commissioners, declared the Juvenile Court staff had not done its duty and that his three women investigators were doing more work than the entire visitation staff of the court. He said he has learned of homes that were not visited by court workers for a year at a time.

MRS. BUCK FEUD SPLITS CHURCH ON MISSIONS

Board and Officials Elected Without Opposition

COLUMBUS, O., May 29.—(AP.)—High officials of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. contemplate "decisive action," it was reliably reported today, in the event any congregation withdraws support from the Board of Foreign Missions in favor of a rival board proposed by the "extreme fundamentalist" faction of the church.

One assembly officer, who declined to be quoted, said church law would make such a congregation subject to discipline.

The ultra-fundamentalist group, headed by the Rev. H. McAllister Griffiths, of Philadelphia, announced plans Saturday to form the new board for what they termed "Bible-believing Christians." Mrs. Jeremiah Griggs, Pittsburgh, was listed as a member. Announcement of formation of the group followed an overwhelming vote of confidence given the present official board by the General Assembly.

Led by Dr. Griffiths and Dr. J. Gresham Machen, also of Philadelphia, the self-styled "Bible-believers" have attacked the board because, among other things, it accepted the resignation of Mrs. Pearl Buck, author and former missionary, "with regret."

OFFICERS ELECTED

Without a sign of opposition, the assembly today approved the election of the following:

General Council:—George D. Edwards, of Pittsburgh; S. F. Shattuck, of Neenah, Wis.; Mrs. W. N. Friend, Oakland, Cal.; the Rev. Harry C. Rogers, of Kansas City, Mo., and the Rev. Raymond M. Kistler, of Rochester, N. Y.

Ruling Elders—J. William Smith, of Philadelphia; Dr. John M. T. Finney, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Burdette Lewis, of Princeton, N. J.

Permanent Judicial Commission—The Rev. Herbert K. England, of Roselle, N. J.; the Rev. Robert Watson, of Boston, Mass.; Lewis M. Stevens, of Philadelphia; W. Hall Harris, Jr., of Baltimore and Albert A. Reed, of Denver, Col.

Board of Trustees—Arthur W. Jones, of Philadelphia; Van Horn Ely, of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; George H. Stewart, III, of Philadelphia and the Rev. George E. Gillespie, of Woodbury, N. J.

Board of Foreign Missions—Dr. William J. Barnes, of Englewood, N. J.; Mrs. Delavan L. Pierson, of Upper Montclair, N. J.; Frank Bell, of Shadyside, Pittsburgh; Mrs. H. Walford Martin, of Summit, N. J.; Miss Katherine B. Cochran, of Plainfield, N. J.; the Rev. Waldo H. Cherry, of Harrisburg, Pa.; Dwight H. Day, of New York City; the Rev. Peter K. Emmons, of Scranton, Pa.; Dr. Charles R. Erdman, of Princeton, N. J.; Mrs. John H. Finley, of New York City; Mrs. William Van V. Hayes, of New York City; the Rev. Robert R. Littell, D.D., of Philadelphia; Mrs. Minot C. Morgan, of New York City; Mrs. Charles K. Roys, of Aurora, N. Y.; W. P. Stevenson, of Roselle, N. J., and the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, of Washington, D. C.

Woman Here on Board Of 'Rebel' Presbyterians

Mrs. Jeremiah B. Griggs, of 1965 Perrysville avenue, has been named one of a board of 25 to comprise an "independent" Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, according to an International News dispatch from Columbus, O.

Mrs. Griggs is active in affairs of the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, whose pastor, the Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Macartney is a militant Fundamentalist. She said a meeting of the new board would be held next month at a place not yet determined.

BUCK, KIDNAPER, GOES INSANE

BARNSTABLE, Mass., May 29.—(AP.)—Kenneth Buck, 28, held on charges of kidnaping and extortion in connection with the kidnaping of Margaret (Peggy) McMath, 10, from the Harwick Center Grammar School on May 2, today was in the Bridgewater Hospital for the Criminal Insane after he had become violent in his cell.

Buck, extremely nervous since he was arrested and confessed he abducted the child, fainted in his cell and when he regained consciousness he started to thrash about.

Buck, with his brother, Cyril, who is also charged with extortion, were being held in the Barnstable County Jail. The state today continued preparations for the trial of the two brothers, scheduled for June 12.

258,000 VISIT FAIR IN 2 DAYS

CHICAGO, May 29.—(INS.)—Throngs of week-end visitors who streamed into the Century of Progress Exposition grounds to view its three miles of wonders on the opening two days numbered 258,000, official figures showed today.

As on Saturday night the great lights illuminating the grounds and modernistic buildings were switched on last night with a control operated from a beam of light which had been for 40 years on its journey from the star Arcturus.

Prominent bridge players will compete in the world's greatest contract bridge tournament which opens today at the exposition and will continue for 150 days.

DRANGA MAID TRIES SUICIDE

Despondent, police say, over the death of her employer, Dr. Amelia Dranga, prominent woman physician, Eleanor Heck, 17, a maid in Dr. Dranga's private hospital, 5816 Callowhill street, swallowed poison tablets last night. She was taken to the Montefiore Hospital.

Miss Heck, it was reported at the hospital, had cried continually since the death of her employer and was in no condition to be questioned by police. Hospital attaches say while her condition is not critical there is a possibility that the results may be serious.

Funeral services for Dr. Dranga will be held tonight in the T. B. Moreland funeral home.

Injury of Carnegie Plant Employe Fatal

Willard Koehler, 20, of Newkirk street, Carnegie, died in Allegheny General Hospital late yesterday from paralysis as a result of a fall last May 13, according to a Coroner's report. He was injured while pulling a hand truck in the Superior Paper Products Company, Carnegie, the report said.

Memorial Rites Planned at Battlefield

THE BATTLEFIELD, Gettysburg, May 29. — (AP.) — In Gettysburg, the roses bloom—sentinels to slumbering hosts of the Blue and the Gray.

One of the nation's most sacred shrines, the broad, rolling ground where the greatest battle in the continent's history was fought, awaits in all the glories of summer, return of those who would remember the Boys of '63.

Thousands will visit the historic battlefield tomorrow.

Friends and kin of the heroes will rededicate the green meadows with warm tears and a prayer.

Former Gov. John S. Fisher will speak of those stirring days of the Civil War where Lincoln prayed that "government of the people, by the people, and for the people" should not perish from the earth.

Slate Fall Kills New Eagle Miner

Peter Gumbasi, 49, was killed by falling slate in Montour Mine No. 10 of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, according to a report to the Coroner. Gumbasi is married and lives at New Eagle.

TRUCK DRIVER SHOT AT PARTY

Michael Davin, 28, a truck driver, of 2008 DeRaud street, was in serious condition today in the West Penn Hospital with a bullet wound in the chest as an aftermath of an alleged fight last night at a farmhouse in Vilsack road, near Babcock boulevard, Shaler Township.

Davin told detectives he and a companion, John Thomas, 28, of 1223 Gilmore street, had alighted from their machine at the farmhouse when three shots rang out, one striking him. He said Thomas drove him to the hospital.

Detectives said a dozen men staged a party at the farmhouse and the shooting occurred when a fight broke out.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 29.—(INS.)—Breaking the record set a week ago by Mrs. Mary Sansom of 246 loops, Mrs. Edith Descomb, woman pilot, looped 376 times yesterday in three hours and 16 minutes, consuming 32 gallons of gasoline.

Uncle Tom and Hounds Back on Broadway

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP.)—To Broadway there comes tonight Uncle Tom, Little Eva and the good old bloodhounds.

Uncle Tom hasn't winced hereabouts under the blacksnake whip of that human devil, Simon Legree, for many a day.

When Otis Skinner blacks up and pulls the wool over his head tonight it will be brand new stuff to many sophisticated theater-goers. They never have known the glory of sitting on a plank under a tent and seeing Little Eva go to heaven in the flicker of kerosene torches.

The performance will positively take place tonight, rain or shine; and if the dogs that chase Eliza across the ice are fox hounds instead of bloodhounds, Broadway won't know the difference.

The claim is advanced that this "Tom" show has definitely solved for once and for all the chief flaw of previous productions, the apathy of the hounds in the pursuit of the poor slave gal. Many an Eliza has been embarrassed by the nonchalance with which the beasts have halted in midstream and scratched their fleas.

Tonight it will be different. A live fox will be led across the stage before the curtain rises. A moment later Eliza, clasping her baby, will flee across the floes, taking a course identical with that of the fox. The dogs, with fox scent guiding them, will sprint in pursuit. That, at any rate, is the theory.

Caruso's Son to Ask Mexican Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—A divorce complaint in behalf of Enrico Roberto Caruso of Hollywood, son of the late great Italian Tenor, Enrico Caruso, against his Italian wife, Valdamire Caruso, will be filed in Mexico today through C. Vincent Riccardi, international divorce lawyer, the attorney announced here.

The son of the world famous tenor and the daughter of an Italian noble family were married in Naples six years ago. There are two children who are living with their mother in Italy. The complaint alleges incompatibility.

kidnaping for ransom a capital offense.

Whatever your opinions on capital punishment, you will agree that with death the penalty in Florida, kidnapers will prefer to operate elsewhere, especially as Florida justice acts swiftly.

WHEN President Roosevelt sent out his peace message a copy went to Russia's soviet government, and Senator Borah said that was official recognition of Russia.

Now former Senator Brookhart of Iowa will go to Russia as "agricultural envoy" from the United States. Apparently this nation is recognizing Russia, sensibly, but unostentatiously.

BARBERS FREED IN UNION FEUD

Informations against three Hilltop barbers accused of hurling bricks through windows of a rival shop today were withdrawn and they were discharged in Central Police Court.

The three were arrested on information by Nick DeRose, 439 Climax street. They were David Hughes, 407 Gearing street; John Corcoran, 604 Beltzhoover avenue, and Frank Klauss, 413 Climax street. The men admitted visiting DeRose on three occasions, as charged by the latter, urging him to join the National League of Barbers.

The windows were broken May 3 after DeRose had withdrawn from the union, he said, when business dropped under the higher price for hair cuts. The window of the shop of F. F. Strothers, Negro, 104 Chalfant street, was broken the same date.

DeRose withdrew informations upon advice of Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, who said it would rest upon the plaintiff to prove that the three men hurled the bricks if the case went to court.

What Are You Going To Do About It?

When wolves of the underworld, on murder bent, invade crowded thoroughfares at the height of a rush hour in the heart of a great city and spray their bullets about the heads of innocent citizens, and escape unscathed, leaving maimed and dying bystanders in their wake, as was done on Broadway recently, it is high time that the aggrieved populace rose to the occasion and demanded that SOMETHING BE DONE.

And the question is, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, what are YOU going to do about it?

Is this community, like so many others in the land, to be forever at the mercy of gangdom?

Not if an aroused populace insists upon the ROUTING OF THE RACKETEERS.

How many innocents must be slaughtered, how many bystanders crippled or injured on the public highways before the death dealers of the underworld are wiped out?

Not another one, if ALL good citizens shake off their lethargy and voice a united demand that the duly constituted authorities wage an unrelenting war to the finish against racketeers—all racketeers.

Organized criminals make their own laws and ENFORCE them, even to the death penalty. Why cannot organized society do as well?

It can—when law enforcement agencies weed out from the ranks those few base public servants allied with the underworld.

Woman Hurt in Auto Crash, Drivers Held

Mrs. Frank Lukes, 33, of 112 Sagamore street, a passenger in the automobile of A. W. Beales, 21, of Hookstown, Pa., suffered a fractured skull yesterday when Beales' car collided with that of John Wolfe, 52, of 2 Crawford street, in Carson street near the Point Bridge. She is in a serious condition in the South Side Hospital and the drivers are under arrest pending a hearing.

KING RECEIVES MRS. OWEN

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 29.—(AP.)—With all the traditional old world pomp and ceremony, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, United States Minister to Denmark, presented her credentials to King Christian today.

The King's chamberlain drove to her residence in an old-time coach, with coachmen and footmen in scarlet coats and yellow breeches. She was accompanied to the palace of Counsellor Winship.

Mrs. Owen, who wore an eggshell colored satin afternoon gown, a long coat with somewhat darker fur-trimmed sleeves, and a small hat to match, was ushered into the presence of the King.

Hilary Club Plans Spring Social Event

The spring supper dance of the Hilary Club, local professional men's organization, will be held at the Roosevelt Hotel, tomorrow evening. Nathan Holstein is in charge of arrangements. Entertainment will be furnished by Dr. Jack C. Levy and Julius Rosenberg. Louis E. Cozier recently was elected president of the club.

Mr. Holstein

Obeys Mace Edict, In Hospital 10 Days

Patrolman Andrew Aaul, who obeyed his superiors' edict and refrained from using his mace in subduing a prisoner, appeared in South Side Police Court today after having spent 10 days in Mercy Hospital with an injured knee cap.

He testified he was hurt in a struggle with Stephen Mamula, 36, of 2716 Sarah street, in arresting the latter on a charge of drunkenness. Mamula was fined $10 or 10 days in jail by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney.

FREE
JIG-SAW PUZZLE
See Your Grocer

With every purchase of Battle Creek ZO and FIG BRAN your grocer will give you a 104 piece Jig-Saw Puzzle FREE. ZO is a crisp, crunchy cereal, ready-to-serve, made from choicest parts of wheat and barley—super rich in Vitamin B—containing several times as much food iron as spinach, raisins, steak, bread or milk. FIG BRAN is a delicious combination of Nature's own laxatives—Figs and Bran. Rich in food iron, food lime and Vitamin B. Mixed together, these two famous cereals afford a zestful cereal such as you've never tasted before.

FAMOUS BATTLE CREEK CEREALS

Fugitive From Pen Caught in Mountain

BELLEFONTE, May 29.—(AP.)—After wandering two days in the mountains, Thomas O'Dowd is back again at Rockview Penitentiary to begin his 10 to 20-year sentence.

O'Dowd, who escaped Friday a few hours after he was brought from Pittsburgh with other prisoners, was captured late yesterday in the Nittany Mountain, two miles from the prison.

Pontiff to Lead Rome Procession

ROME, May 29.—(AP.)—Catholic prelates said today that the Pope will participate in an enormous procession to St. Peter's Square June 15.

CIRCUS ARRIVES TOMORROW

With 29 elephants, 50 clowns, lions, tigers, pretty girls and freaks, and all the glamorous attributes of the sawdust, the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus will arrive in town at dawn tomorrow for a week's run.

Among special attractions at the show, to be set up in Exposition Park, North Side, will be Clyde Beatty, world-renowned animal trainer, who will mix 40 lions and tigers, deadly jungle enemies, in his big cage.

The circus also will present the Princess Mu Kann, "giraffe-neck" woman from Upper Burma, her neck stretched to 14 inches and encircled with brass rings. There will be Bombayo, Hindu acrobat, who does double somersaults on a rope, "Poodles" Hanneford and his bareback riding family, famous aerialists, the Billetti troupe of highwire daredevils, and high ladder acts.

A colorful pageant, "The Soudan," will open each show at 2 and 8 p. m. Doors will be open an hour earlier.

TWO THEORIES IN AUTO DEATH

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 29.—Fayette County officials are at odds over the cause of the death of W. B. Keller, Connellsville insurance man, whose charred body was found in his burned automobile in the lonely Wharton Furnace road near the Summit Saturday.

District Attorney Wade K. Newell declares that Keller was held up, murdered and his body cremated. In support of this theory, Newell declares that the gasoline lines and ignition system on the car fail to show any defects which would have started the blaze.

Coroner S. A. Baltz maintains that death was due to a heart attack and the fire to an explosion.

D. E. Town, Hearst Executive, Buried

NEW YORK, May 29.—(Universal)—Funeral services for David Edward Town, chairman of the executive committee of the Hearst Corporations and chairman of the board of the International Magazine Company, were held today at his home, 55 Central Park, West.

Mr. Town, who had long been a prominent figure in the newspaper world, died Saturday after a short illness. He leaves his wife, two daughters and three sisters.

Auto Injuries Fatal To University Head

GASTONIA, N. C., May 29.—(AP.)—Dr. William Joseph McGlothlin, 65, president of Furman University, Greenville, S. C., died in City Hospital here yesterday of injuries suffered in an automobile wreck May 16.

Mrs. McGlothlin was killed in the same wreck in which her husband was injured. They were on their way to Washington to attend the Southern Baptist convention, of which Dr. McGlothlin was a past president.

An Appeal to the Common Sense of Motorists!

The gasoline business is suffering from an epidemic of "Name-itis".

Fancy names and advertisements seem to be the rule. All sorts of trick names and statements are being used to insinuate that regular gasolines have premium qualities. It is an insult to your common sense to tell you that.

We believe in selling motor products for exactly what they are.

No amount of "special naming" or sales arguments can make a special motor fuel out of a regular gasoline!

This company has the resources, the organization, the willingness to give you the best value that can be offered. More than this no one can offer. No amount of ballyhoo can change the gasoline itself. That's the real answer! American Oil Company products are honestly described. To follow exaggerated claims is to court disappointment.

THE AMERICAN OIL COMPANY
Executive Offices: Baltimore, Md.

● AMOCO-GAS is a special motor fuel, selling at a premium because of its superior premium qualities. And it is well worth the premium.

● ORANGE AMERICAN GAS is a regular gasoline, and sells at regular gasoline price. It is the finest regular gasoline money can buy.

RAMBLING IN RADIOLAND :: Notes About Broadcasters; Aircaster's Gossip :: MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAMS

5 New Series Make Bows Today

Viscount Kikujiro Ishii's farewell to America before sailing for London as Japan's representative at the world economic and monetary conference goes on the air via NBC-KDKA at 10 o'clock tonight.

Also marking the day are the inaugurals of five new programs.

The Rhythm Kings—Frank Knutti, tenor and director; Paul Vannoy, tenor, and Earl Richard, baritone—go into the 5 p. m. spot on KDKA for a commercial, and Countess Olga Albani opens a new song series on WCAE at 8:30.

Seven-thirty on WWSW brings Bobby Brown, in the person of Charles Gilbert Davis, Pittsburgh juvenile actor, with impressions of the Century of Progress exposition. The program will be broadcast daily, replacing "Behind the Kitchen Door."

With Johnny Johnson opening an engagement at the Willows tonight for an indefinite stay, WWSW has booked a nightly 8 p. m. rhythmic seance from the Oakmont play spot.

Three-Piano Team

The Playboys, six-hands-on-two-pianos outfit composed of Felix Bernard, Walter Samuels and Leonard Whitcup, returned for bi-weekly CBS-WJAS programs this morning. Their schedule: Mondays, 11:30 a. m., and Fridays, 11:45 a. m.

* * *

Victor Saudek brings his Little Symphony to KDKA tonight for a half-hour of light concert music at 7:30 . . . On the same station at 6:30, Lucile Bauch, soprano, and J. Dickson Fulton, tenor, come into the "Pittsburgh Spotlight" with operetta flashes.

* * *

Filmland Stars

Phil Harris, leader of the Cocoanut Grove Orchestra and star of the film, "Melody Cruise," does a guest appearance with Chic Chandler, Helen Mack and other members of the cast during Hollywood - on - the-Air . . . WCAE at midnight.

"They Gotta Quit Kickin' My Dog Aroun'," the plaintive classic of the hills used as a campaign song in 1912, provides the material for tonight's melodramatic "Hill Billy Heart Throbs" on KDKA at 8:30.

Globe-Trotter Marks Holiday

Because the Sun-Telegraph will not be published tomorrow, Memorial Day, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun- Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, will not be on the air.

His broadcasts today are scheduled over WCAE at 9:05 a. m., and over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

A cast of talented Pittsburgh children, headed by Grandpa and Lillian, Sun-Telegraph comic-reading team, presents a gala 30-minute variety entertainment for the kiddies on WCAE at 4:45 today.

Seibel Discusses Plays, Players

George Seibel's weekly "Plays and Players" discussion of new plays and personalities of the theatrical world will be a WCAE Memorial Day feature, broadcast tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

Gen. Pershing Leads Vets' Tributes

Radio's observance of Memorial Day brings three celebrated personalities—Gen. John J. Pershing, Secretary of War George H. Dern and Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, to the air waves tomorrow.

The war-time leader of the A. E. F. comes to the microphone under the auspices of the American Legion during a nation-wide broadcast over the NBC red network, including WCAE, at 5 p. m.

Secretaries Dern and Swanson are to be heard over both WCAE and WJAS at 2 p. m. during a broadcast of the official G. A. R. services from the Arlington Amphitheater, Washington.

The first of the annual Naumburg memorial concerts in Central Park will be broadcast over NBC-KDKA at 9 tomorrow night.

On WCAE at 10, Pittsburgh's Chauncey Parsons, tenor, and Norman Cordon, bass, will fill the "Lives at Stake" guest spots. Parsons featuring the "Sweetheart Darlin'," the new hit from Marion Davies' film, "Peg o' My Heart."

Howard Barlow plays and all-Rimsky-Korsakoff symphonic concert via WJAS at 10:45 p. m.

A running account of the Belmont Park track's Memorial Day feature, the Withers, with Thomas Bryan George, CBS turf expert, at the microphone, will be broadcast over CBS-WJAS from 4 to 4:15.

Australia's 'Paul Whiteman' Brings 'Kangaroo Jazz' to U. S.

By AIRCASTER

Frank Parker, whose voice gives added class to the Gypsies weekly waftings, has discovered radio's two meanest men—and they're both tenors. The discovery was a lesson to him. After this, professional camaraderie is out.

There is in the radio profession a certain sympathetic sentiment for artists out of work. There are so many of these that Frank was not exactly astonished last week, when within two days, a brace of Chicago tenors "touched" him for fare back home. He charitably kicked in to the moochers and sent them on their separate ways.

But two days later he made his discovery. The two panhandlers had spent their last pennies to speed to New York, because they had heard erroneously that Parker would not shift with the Gypsies program to the World's Fair—and they had come half way across the continent, each expecting to get Parker's job!

* * *

From Down Under

Cecil James Morrison, who, in case you haven't heard, is the Paul Whiteman of Australia, and who peddles for the kilocycle contingent of his own land a peculiar brand of music known as kangaroo jazz, happens to be in New York, en route home after a tour. On Wednesday night over WJZ-KDKA he'll waft a few samples of his work to American customers, beginning at 9:30 o'clock.

Cecil probably expected to startle local ears by claiming that people don't dance to jazz music, but sit and listen. Singularly enough, B. A. Rolfe makes the same claim.

Well, they try, anyhow!

* * *

The Sirens is the apt title applied to a new femme trip which is going on the air. Another set of vocal triplets, also gals, start in with the name "The Three D's."

Recalling the existence of the Three X Sisters, and the predominance of similar outfits, why can't we get 'em straight by calling the Boswells "The B's," the Pickens, "The P's," etc., etc.?

White House 'Voice' Open Broadcasts

Making an introductory appearance heralding the inauguration of his new broadcast series Sunday, Col. Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, will be heard over NBC-WCAE Wednesday at 3 p. m., during the RCA-Victor national dealer meeting program. With him will be Walter Trumbull, newspaper correspondent who will act as interrogator in the series.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Hope everything is going along all right again between us—that is between the ladies who went to Forbes Field last Thursday after the announcement at noon and found that the ball game was called off, and myself.

The club officials are going into conference, when conditions warrant, not later than 12 o'clock, to decide on the fitness of the playing field and if the game is called off I will know for the noon broadcast.

Heard many of the ladies complain that they watched the Giant second sacker, and he didn't move the opposing player's glove before "Play Ball" was called each inning, like Chilly Doyle said he would, Huey Critz being superstitious that way.

Chilly wants me to square it with the girls by telling them that it didn't happen because at the last moment Terry sent James in to play when Huey showed signs of a slight cold.

No one feels more relieved than Bill Benswanger to find out Tommy Thevenow's bride has been heard from—not only for his friendly interest in Tommy but for the sake of all the players on the team whose morale, he feared, was jeopardized by her disappearance. It has made us all feel better.

The Biggest News Since Fresh Gas...

That Good Gulf Gasoline is now lubricated!

GULF stations from Maine to Mexico are now offering a motor fuel that surpasses everything that has gone before.

This great fuel is new in everything but name. It actually gives greater mileage and cuts repair costs—because it lubricates the upper cylinder and valves.

The new lubricating Good Gulf Gasoline contains an upper cylinder lubricant made by an exclusive Gulf process. This lubricant—correctly blended with that Good Gulf Gasoline, the famous fresh gas—makes today's greatest non-premium fuel for modern motors!

It lubricates the intake valves, prevents sticking, and forms little or no carbon!

If you want to get more and lower cost miles out of a gallon of gas, try the new Good Gulf Gasoline today. It doesn't cost a penny more.

THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE
IT'S FRESH—NOW LUBRICATED

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: Why not remind the crowd that all this silly talk about Schmeling will hurt nobody but Jack Dempsey—if they keep it up? . . . As Jack says: "Say, maybe Schmeling will get licked!" . . . Whether he is or not—do what you can to help Dempsey click. He don't live on the heavy applause they give him, you know . . . A Dayton man called. Said the Miss-a-Meal idea is similar to one conducted there, which was a success many years ago. Their slogan was: "Food for the Famished by the Fast of the Fortunate." Very good . . . On what page of the "Almanach de Gotha" is the princely house of Mdvani mentioned? What are czar's aide de camps and fevvensakes how many are there? . . . What outside of peasantry, does the Georgian nation consist of? . . . And where did they get the throne the Mdvanis are supposed to be pretenders to? . . . And don't tell me how many prepositions I've ended sentences WITH! . . . How easily one can fool this so-called New York society with a very small ess!

Toss an orchid at Mr. Corbett of the Administration Bldg. for what he did to one of those Broadway auction rooms that sell diamonds with flaws in them bigger than your mouth . . . And an orchid to Kath Cornell for her calmness during a fire scare at a Boston theater . . . I see that the word "rat" is made the basis for a lawsuit . . . Seems to me that a "rat" was something women used to wear in their hair . . . Before you chuck any more compliments on the way "Stormy Weather" should be sung, hear Adelaide Hall really do it at the Lafayette . . . The John Walters sift is ready to break—but with a bang.

Appreciative nurse wish you would jot down one line about the nurses in Ward 10 at Welfare Island's City Hosp. who are so kind to all patients . . . The Philip Mohuns, nice people of Forest Hills, want to give you a Boston toy bulldog (pedigreed) to take to Walda. It's the cutest thing—male—five weeks old . . . You have to feed it via a baby milk bottle. Be good company for you on the train.

Here's one to groan about. Alfred R. Handy, who was a Sgt. Major in the Big Quarrel, and who won numerous medals, was selected by Mr. Cummings, producer of the flicker, "Forgotten Men," to represent the U. S. . . . Handy worked 4 days (one day from 9 a. m. to 1:30 the following morn) and got $14 . . . He had been out of work 2 years, so grabbed it. Mr. Cummings told Handy that there would be personal appearances, too, for which he'd be better paid. But, of course, this was forgotten . . . "Forgotten Men" is the movie's name. They certainly demonstrated it on Handy. Hisss!

Dorothy Oatman, who appeared in vaudeville when you did, and who quit it to watch her Okla. oil wells gush—will marry a big rubber exec., who was recently melted . . . Ann Rush, of the Tee-Hee Club, was poisoned, but is well again . . . Mrs. Floyd Bennett, whose grand husband perished trying to help others, is doing a book about him. Things are not breaking too good for her . . . Rosemary Jordan (she disappeared when her sweetheart died), is home again and regrets causing her kin grief.

The Ben Boyers' baby is due in July . . . The Cascades at the Biltmore opens June 7 . . . The Ross-Fenton Farm on the 23rd . . . Add grand melodies: "Lover" . . . The most exciting foxtrot is a British anthem "Hope and Glory." H. Stern's crew does it delightfully . . . Jack McLallen says that the movie outfit will release more executives than pictures this year . . . Gay Orlova (happy in spots, eh?), who used to smoke big black cigars, has the oddest name. Gay All Over! . . . A man, head of a family of eight kids, three unemployed and five of school age, was fired by the Unemployment Relief Committee after working there 18 months. They told him he was dismissed because he had only one arm . . . His name is Feicht.

There's a phony using Conway Tearle's name to collect funds for a fake charity . . . That item about France never getting paid for Civil War loans was not explicit, feller . . . No foreign power should lend money to a country where they are fighting among themselves and France lent it to the Confederate States, so France loses, too, catch on? . . . "Youth is such a grand thing. It's a pity it is wasted on the young," attributed to Shaw, and by Mearson to himself, may be found in Oscar Wilde's "The Picture of Dorian Gray" . . . Yours until the Morgans, et al. must pay income taxes like the rest of us. (Hello sucker!)

In Kennywood Park tomorrow night an automobile will be awarded free to some patron. The swimming pool and white sea sand beach is open. Tal Henry's North Carolinians will play for the dancing. Robert Cimse's Motorcycle Thriller will be shown afternoon and night. The act features riding at high speed on a high mounted track. All amusements will be in full swing all day.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

CHICAGO, May 29.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, the big Chicago fair opened on time. It had to open on time to give everybody making those long speeches a chance to get 'em over before it closed. Even the preacher who was supposed to ask the blessing, stuck long enough to continue it into the doxology. But it was worth all the praying and talking.

Will Rogers

They had a thousand policemen to block you off at every street to see that you didn't get in. At that, 40 thousand got by the police and got in. My old friend Brisbane couldn't get in till he used Walter Winchell's card. I sneaked in inside Amon Carter's silk hat. Me and twelve other mice.

If there is anywhere in the world you want to go in a crowd, get an old silk hat (the mangier the better). Policemen and ushers have more respect for it than a gold engraved card from President Roosevelt. But it's a great fair, don't miss it. Yours, WILL.

Grant Picked As Lead to Mae West

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, May 29.—Finding that Clark Gable will be too busy to play in her next picture, Mae West has signified to Paramount that young, handsome Cary Grant will be an admirable substitute.

The matter, then, is settled. Cary goes into the West picture as soon as he finishes "Big Executive."

It will be the second time he has appeared opposite the blonde star of the amplitudinous curves. "She Done Him Wrong" saw him cast as the secret service operative. Now, for the new picture, he'll add a touch of gray to his hair and play a Long Island society man.

Cary Grant

Needless to say, the circus queen heroine of the story will have several other admirers. And there'll be plenty of love scenes. Mae will tell you that the censors cramp her here.

It's a swell story they tell of George Kaufman and Bob Sherwood during the writing of the new Cantor picture.

Well into the plot, the two got the hero into a predicament in the Roman Coliseum. As if tiring of the whole thing, they suddenly concluded:

"This seems to be as far as we should go along these lines. Here we might have a chariot race, but why?"

Then they hopped a boat for Europe.

Red-headed Charles Bickford was afraid nobody would believe him when he said he wanted to give away his garage and service station. To date almost 3,000 persons have made personal application at the garage and 3,000 more have written or wired the actor.

Miss Dietrich

* * *

Despite an exciting trip, Marlene Dietrich found time in Paris to buy Director Rouben Mamoulian a trick watch in a wooden case. He's just received the gift . . . Helene Costello and her husband, Arturo Del Barrio, spend much time in the late spots these nights.

* * *

Joan Crawford is helping her sister-in-law's new shop by buying her hats there. She's had 16 made in the last few weeks . . . If jobs get slow, Neal Hamilton is going to make a bicycle tour of California this summer. Neil was the original—or very near it—bicycle fan in the film colony.

Mr. Hamilton

Wallie Beery reports a very close shave while flying to his fishing camp. A hangar attendant neglected to close his gas tank tight. Wallie happened to notice that the rush of air was siphoning out the precious fuel. He made a quick landing and repaired the slip which might have cost him his life.

* * *

He denies it's a separation, but Weldon Heyburn is leaving for New York. Greta Nissen remains in Hollywood to act at Fox . . . Everybody is pleased to hear that George O'Brien's father, Dan O'Brien, former chief of police of San Francisco, is much improved of his heart ailment. Meanwhile, George is planning another trip as soon as he finishes one more picture. It will take him to Argentine, then to the Orient and back to California.

Fools 'Em

George Arliss in "The Working Man," coming to the Enright Tuesday, fools the youngsters who think he's a "dead one."

Bing Crosby Signed For More Films

Bing Crosby has been signed by Paramount for two more productions following the completion of his role in "College Humor." The first, "Every Man for Himself," with Jack Oakie, Harry Green and Skeets Gallagher, will follow by a role in "Cloudy With Showers," based on the play by Thomas Mitchell, which will come to the screen as a musical piece.

Wallace Beery Cast For Mexican Film

Wallace Beery's first picture under his new long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will be "Viva Villa," a story suggested by the career of the famous Mexican bandit and written by Edgcumb Pynchon. Jack Conway will direct the new film from a script supplied by Wallace Smith and O. H. P. Garrett.

Buses Will Run To County Parks

Motor coach service to North and South Parks will be provided during the summer months by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, it was announced today at the company offices. The first bus will leave the city for South Park at 1 p. m., the last returning at 9 p. m. The first bus for North Park leaves at 1:30 p. m., the last returning at 8:30 p. m.

Pittsburgh Girl Wins Diction Prize

The department of Drama, Carnegie Institute of Technology, held a contest in diction in the theater of the College of Fine Arts, all contestants giving the speech by Ulysses in act III, scene 3, Shakespeare's "Troilus and Cressida." Mrs. Florence Fisher Parry, drama critic; Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, and Carroll Fitzhugh, president of the Pittsburgh Drama League, acted as judges. The contestants were all members of the freshman class in the department of drama. The first prize of $25 was awarded to DeLisle Crawford, of Oak Park, Ill., and the second prize of $15 to Dorothy Moyer, of Parkview avenue, Pittsburgh.

Whitman Sisters Head Roosevelt Bill

The Whitman Sisters are featured in a Negro stage attraction in the Roosevelt Theater, Center avenue, the first four days of this week. The company of 40 also includes Princess Wee Wee, who sings and dances, and "Pops" Whitman, who has been signed for radio. The Chicago Black Hawks will be in the orchestra pit. The company will present four performances of comedy and music daily.

Decoration Day Plans For West View

The Decoration Day program at West View Park will include music by Danny Nirella and his band. Several entertainers appear with the band, both afternoon and evening. The Arbaugh Troupe will give performances at 4 and 10 p. m. This attraction will remain at the park throughout this week. The ballroom will have Danny Nirella's orchestra at 2:30 and 8:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Old-Timer

Lionel Barrymore plays a veteran employe of a department store in "Looking Forward," film opening Thursday in Fulton.

High School to Present Sierra Comedy

Players composed of members of the senior class, Sacred Heart High School, will present "The Cradle Song," comedy by Sierra, in the Boys' Catholic High School, Fifth avenue, tonight. The production is given for the benefit of the St. Vincent De Paul Institute.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Your real thrill of a James Cagney movie will come when that old lady-slapper tries to sock Marie Dressler or Jobyna Howland . . . Jimmy Durante has made a fortune out of the same kind of a beak that made only trouble for Cyrano De Bergerac . . . Irene Dunne always suggests calm self-possession . . . Edna May Oliver twinkles her nose like a rabbit . . . Whatever becomes of all the baby-voiced singers of the boop-doop school . . . Nobody on the screen could ever jerk the tears like Lillian Gish . . . Or look so distant as Pauline Frederick . . . Mary Boland smiles more with her eyes than her lips . . . Ed Wynn laughs soprano and speaks tenor and baritone.

* * *

With production about over for the season, Broadway has settled down to the routine of the current shows that have endured, and to the expectancy of certain musical shows that are threatening nativity any time from midsummer to Christmas. Musicals that appear to be set for the summer—just in case you visit the big town—are "Gay Divorce," "Music In the Air" and "Take a Chance." Best among the non-lyrical shows seem to be "Goodbye Again," with Osgood Perkins and Sally Bates, and "Biography," with Ina Claire still the charmer.

* * *

Burns and Allen have signed a new Paramount contract for three years, that includes both stage and screen work, with two pictures a year assured . . . Capt. Menke's local friends may meet him later at Chicago, his show boat having left Memphis for the World's Fair city . . . Nelson Eddy, who will make his screen debut opposite Jeanette MacDonald in "The Prisoner of Zenda," is a former member of the Civic Opera of Philly . . . Carole Lombard will be the star of the film verson of S. N. Behrman's play, "Brief Moment" . . . Will Rogers, in his next picture, "The Last Adam," will have Vera Allen, Broadway actress, as his leading woman . . . El Brendel will play a comedy role in the next George O'Brien western, "The Last Trail," by Zane Grey.

* * *

Joe Cook, who has not been seen on the stage since his return from an unfortunate trip to England, will be the star of a new musical early next season. A Shubert subsidiary will be the producer of the book of Russell Crouse, Corey Ford and Charles Behan, that will have music and lyrics by Owen Murphy, Russell Bennett and Robert Simon.

Has LUXURY ROBBED WOMEN of their COURAGE?

This is a drama of great loyalties, of those things of the heart that touch us deeply. No matter how we judge these true-to-life characters, their story grips our sympathetic hearts, thrills us!

Was She To Blame?

It was a difficult choice for her to make . . . she hadn't the courage to give up the loves and luxuries of her pampered life. She deserted while her husband's fortunes crumbled about him.

He Was Loyal!

As the old employee, discharged after many years' service, Lionel Barrymore gives a performance so true, so tender that you'll never forget it. In a moment of magnificent drama he gives new courage to the failing spirits about him.

Genius Made It!

Because this picture concerns one of the most powerful human subjects of our time, M-G-M selected for its making the famed director Clarence Brown, and for its star beloved Lionel Barrymore.

Pres. Roosevelt's Title

President Roosevelt, after seeing this picture, gave the producers permission to use the title of his own book "Looking Forward."

All in a Day

Code of Honor

HERE IS AN absolutely true little story that took place in the Bronx just three nights back. It was relayed to me by Artie Hitchman, and I have no reason at all to doubt the veracity of the youthful Mr. Hitchman. There is nothing startling about the yarn, and I'm not certain that it's particularly amusing. There's frankness for you!

One thing about the story, however. It proves most completely that the guy who said that almost anything can happen in New York, certainly knew what he was talking about. Nothing surprises me these days. Tales I would have scoffed at years ago now seem entirely plausible when they are related to me.

We live today amid the most fantastic conditions. Anything can happen at any time. People are killed right and left without anyone worrying particularly. Mr. Al Capone gets 11 years in jail for failing to pay an income tax, and Mr. J. P. Morgan gets congratulations for not paying any either.

The people who wanted me removed from my newspaper nine years ago for writing against prohibition now vote 40-to-1 for repeal. Mr. Harriman, who lost fortunes for many depositors, tries to kill himself when he finally loses his own. Mr. James Walker and Mr. Herbert Hoover are forgotten newspaper figures—and down in Newport, a Mrs. Jelke, with the worst divorce mess on record, is given column after column on the front pages.

In Washington, there's a —but, there I go again. Writing about everything but the story I have in mind. If I don't get into it pretty quickly, my space will be gone. Let's see, what was it again? Oh, yes, I remember.

Dr. Williams, a family physician in the Bronx, was preparing to retire for the night. His wife was already in bed when the phone rang. The lady answered it.

"Hello? The doctor? Who wants him, please? Who? Mr. Franklin? Just a moment, please."

The doctor looked slightly puzzled.

"Franklin?" he repeated. "I don't think I——" Then he nodded suddenly. "Oh, yes. I know who it is now. He was over to my office the day before yesterday. Stomach trouble, I think it was. Tell him I've already retired for the night and to drop into my office again in the morning."

His wife relayed the message.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Franklin," she said, "but the doctor has already gone to bed and I cannot disturb him. If you will call at his office in the morning, he will see you then.

"What's that? You're in great pain? Well, if the doctor awakens, I'll tell him about it immediately. Let me have your phone number and address, please. What's that? Repeat that number. All right, I have it. Yes, I'll be sure to tell him. Goodby."

She hung up the phone.

"He says his stomach is bothering him terribly. You don't want to go over do you?"

Her husband climbed into bed. With a sigh of contentment, he adjusted the covers about him and opened his favorite paper.

"I should say not," he returned. "This is the first decent relaxation I've had in three nights. Besides, that Franklin lives all the way across town, as I remember it, and he didn't look to me as though he had much ready cash. I guess he'll live until he gets to my office."

For 20 minutes or so, there was perfect quiet in the apartment. Then the phone rang again. Once more the wife answered.

"Hello, Mr. Franklin? Why I just told you, Mr. Franklin, that the doctor was sleeping. What's that? Well, just a moment."

She looked at her husband with a sad expression.

"He's in terrible pain, he says," she asserted. "Says the pains in his stomach are killing him. He insists that you come over at once. What shall I tell him?"

Dr. Williams reached for the phone.

"This is the doctor, Mr. Franklin. What seems to be the trouble? I see. Yes, I see.

"All right, if you feel as badly as all that, I'll be over. Yes, I'll make it as fast as I can. Put a hot water bag on it in the meantime."

He hung up with a snap.

"Damnation!" he growled. "This is a cursed business I picked out for myself. Crawling out of bed at midnight and driving all the way across the city to see a patient who means nothing to me."

He struggled into his underwear.

"Call up the garage, dear," he ordered, "and have them send my car back. I might as well drive over myself."

And in 20 minutes, Dr. Williams was on his way.

The drive across town didn't do the doctor's mood any good. If he was peevish when he started, he was even surlier when he arrived. He parked his car before a none-too-modern apartment.

In the hall, the light was dim. The doctor was fumbling for a match in order to examine the name plates when a figure stepped out of the shadows.

"Stick 'em up, buddy," said the figure.

The doctor obeyed with great rapidity. Nothing like this had ever happened to him before. He fairly shook with nervousness as a revolver tickled his ribs.

"Don't get excited, feller," said the figure. "If you're a good boy, nothin's gonna happen to you. Just hand over all the dough you got, and then mit me with your watch and that ring you're wearin'. Come on now. Make it snappy."

Telling Dr. Williams to make it snappy at that particular moment was the height of something or other. The good medico was so alarmed that he ripped a trouser pocket in bringing out his money and almost broke his finger pulling off the ring.

He handed over the articles with shaking fingers.

"Here you are, sir," he murmured apologetically. "I haven't much money with me. Only $16. The watch you may have gladly but might I not keep the ring? It's a present from my mother and while it's not worth much, it means a great deal to me.

"Perhaps you'll bring or send it to my office and I'll gladly pay to get it back. I assure I am to be trusted."

"Yeah?" growled the figure. "What's your name?"

"Dr. Williams," replied the medico. "Dr. Julius Mischa Williams. My office—"

The other put his gun away in very hasty fashion. He pressed the money, watch and ring back into the astounded doctor's hand.

"Gee, doc," he cried, "why didn't you tell me who you were? I can't rob you. You're here to see a feller named Franklin, aren't you?"

The doctor nodded dumbly. The other man extended his hand.

"Glad to know you, doc," he said. "I'm Franklin's brother, and he's waitin' to see you. Sorry I put you to all this trouble, old boy."

And they walked upstairs together! . . .

WIFE CHARGES 'LOVE TEST'

SEATTLE, May 29.—(AP.)—In divorce papers filed here a wife charges her husband, a Tacoma physician, with a "love experiment" in which an unnamed young woman was the subject.

Mrs. Olga Linsin, a former school teacher, declared in an affidavit her husband had told her that "if at the end of six months or a year his affection for the young woman was still as now, that he then intended to marry her."

The husband, Dr. Ivan M. Linsin, assistant physician at the United States Indian Hospital at Tacoma, denied the charges.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

Before we talk about anything else today, I want to tell you about a wedding in the East Saturday at which a Pittsburgh son was the bridegrom.

Margaret Virginia Smith, of Windber, Pa., daughter of the late Charles Edward Smiths, became the bride of Alfred Reed Hamilton, Jr., son of Mrs. A. R. Hamilton and the late Mr. Hamilton, of Woodland road, Saturday morning in the Presbyterian Church of Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Only members of the two families attended the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Dr. Andrew Mutch.

The bride is the sister of Charles Edwin Smith, of Lansdowne, Pa. The junior Hamiltons will spend the summer at Bonny Leas Farm, Windber, Pa.

* * *

The Thomas Rhodeses are on their way to Pittsburgh. They have been the guests recently of Mrs. Stewart Lowery in Menlo Park, Cal. Mrs. Rhodes is the former Betty Higgins. Their marriage took place April 22.

* * *

Hardly anyone will be at home tomorrow, although few will be far away. The country clubs will attract almost all those staying in town. And many will use the holiday to catch up on the golf they missed during the recent two weeks of rain.

Many Out Of City

Rolling Rock, Pike Run Country Club, Ross Mountain Park, all within several hours by automobile, will attract others. And a few will be off to more distant resorts.

The William M. Robinsons, their sub-deb daughter, Peggie, and their sons are spending the long holiday week-end at their cottage at Ross Mountain Park. They'll be back in town Tuesday night.

* * *

The junior Edwin Hodges, of Beechwood boulevard, are planning to go East next month for the commencement at Farmington. Their daughter, Marnie, is a member of the graduating class. Marnie is listed among the prospective debutantes of the fall. But like many parents, the Hodges haven't made definite plans.

Daughter Graduate

But with business conditions improving, debutante conditions hold promise of being much better for the fall. If they are, we're going to have the largest number of debs since depression stalked into the social scene.

Of course even if conditions do improve vastly, entertainments next year will not be on the elaborate scale of pre-gloom days. And many will feel it's just as well for the informal, home debuts of the past several seasons have had a charm and intimacy that never can be created in a club.

* * *

Sub-deb Rebecca Love, the Frank S. Loves' daughter, will be home around the 6th of June from Westover. Rebecca has one more year of school.

Home on June 6

Mrs. J. R. McCune, Mrs. Frank A. McCune and Walker McCune went to New York to meet the returning traveler of the family, Marshall L. McCune, back last week from a trip around the world. They stopped at the Biltmore during their stay.

* * *

Mrs. Thomas A. McGinley, of Sewickley Heights, left Friday for Wallingford, Conn., where her son, Walter Floyd, is graduating from the Choate School. They'll return to New York before coming to Pittsburgh, and will stop at the Biltmore.

The Maurice Vilsacks went to New York to meet their daughter, Antoinette, this past week-end. Antoinette has just completed a year abroad with a traveling school.

Carnegie Monday Club to Fete Veterans

Following its custom established more than 30 years ago, the Monday Club of Carnegie will entertain the surviving members of Thomas G. Espy Post, G. A. R., and few guests at dinner in the Y. W. C. A. tomorrow.

Today's meeting, which is the last program one for this season, is in the Y. W. C. A. and is musical in character. Mrs. W. W. Andrews is telling "How Music Grew," Mrs. E. J. Cole has a paper on John Philip Sousa, Mrs. J. R. Haudenshield, one on Stephen C. Foster and Mrs. John Zmag is discussing the best magazine article of the month. A memorial service for Mrs. Luella Dalton is also part of the day's procedure.

Gray Lady Graduation To Be Held Wednesday

Invitations have been sent out by Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross, for the graduation exercises of the Gray Lady Training Class, the exercises to be held Wednesday afternoon in the United States Veterans' Administration Hospital, Aspinwall.

The class includes Mrs. Frederick C. Buckmaster, Mrs. W. W. Duecker, Mrs. J. Paull Fife, Miss Jane Matthews Keally, Mrs. C. S. Koch and Miss Anna S. Whitten.

Miss Edith Lazarus Weds Cleveland Man

Lida Baldridge Names June 24 For Wedding

Another June bride will be Miss Lida Corey Baldridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Baldridge, of Oakview avenue, Edgewood, who has named the twenty-fourth of that month for her marriage to Harry Willis Penney, son of Mrs. Francis Penney, of Leominster, Mass. The ceremony will take place at noon in the chapel of the Edgewood Presbyterian Church.

Miss Lucile Baldridge will be her sister's only attendant, and Douglas Miner will serve as best man. Lee B. Schmerber, Robert W. Baldridge, C. Ray Baldridge and Clifton Harris will be ushers.

There will be a luncheon later in the Baldridge home for the families.

Court Allegheny, C.D.A., To Plan Fathers' Night

Court Allegheny, Catholic Daughters of America, will have its regular business meeting on June 6 in the new club house of Allegheny Council, Knights of Columbus. Plans will be made for the annual fathers' night, which will be in charge of Mrs. Anna K. Lange, treasurer of the court.

Court Allegheny is to have a week-end trip to the Century of Progress Exposition July 1 to 3. Reservations are in charge of Miss Elizabeth O'Neil, regent of the court, and Miss Caroline Claney, vice regent.

Miss O'Neil and Miss Catherine J. Monahan have returned from the state convention in Philadelphia, where Miss Monahan was elected a delegate to the national convention to be held in Colorado Springs in July.

On account of Memorial Day, the Bellevue Round Table has changed its meeting day from Tuesday to Wednesday this week. The members will meet with Mrs. Louis H. Reel, of Reel avenue, West View, and will have their last program for the season, the final meeting being an outing on June 13.

The program has some unusual topic interest, such as "Things to Bother You," "Prattle-Tattle" and "Brain Teasers." Also listed for the day are papers on "Book of the Month," "Hollywood Gossip," "Educationotes" and "Down the Garden Paths."

* * *

At "Stone Gables," Mrs. F. F. Rohrer's home on Churchill road, the Woman's Guild of the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church will have a benefit luncheon and musicale on Thursday.

Miss Lucile Bauch will sing with Miss Selma Brandt accompanying and playing piano solos. Mrs. Walter Close will give readings and a string trio composed of Gladys Mitchell, cello; Margaret Varner, violin, and Katherine Keppel, piano, will contribute numbers.

'City of Beautiful Mist' Subject for Literary Club of Bellevue

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

"The City of Beautiful Mist" is the poetic subject selected by the Woman's Literary Club of Bellevue for its next year's study of Pittsburgh. Mrs. D. M. Sloane will make her inaugural address on October 4 and that same day the members will have a display of Pittsburgh relics. Later in the month there is scheduled a visit to the Carnegie Institute art galleries, combined with a luncheon, a business meeting and a lecture on Pittsburgh artists.

"The Forks of the Ohio" and "The First Occupants of the Land" are topics assigned for the first of the two November meetings, the last being a guest day at the American Legion Home. One program meeting when "Difficulties of Early Settlement" and "The Manor of Pittsburgh" will be discussed and a Christmas party are December events listed in the new year books.

Among other program topics are "Early Church History," a review of "The Latimers," "Glass Manufacture," "The Pittsburgh Gazette," "Early Ship Building," "Waterways," "Pittsburgh Salt Industry," "Eagle Cotton Mill," "Railroad Riots of 1877" and "Westinghouse Safety Devices."

SPEAKING OF GARDENS, LIST TO A TALE OF APPROPRIATE TOGS

IF YOU'VE spent the winter with your nose in a seed catalog and are spending the spring on your knees in the garden—if you dream about delphinium, zinnias, cosmos and gladioli—in other words, if gardening is the passion of your life, here are suggestions of simple, workmanlike togs.

* * *

THEY ARE sturdy tubable materials (both heavy cotton crepe) in sunfast colors. The one at the left has pants the color of the good earth. These are anchored in place by a suspender arrangement, running up over the bright plaid blouse.

* * *

WEAR BRILLIANT colors in your garden. You might as well look like a contented and frequently grubby butterfly. The smock is reminiscent of English gardeners, of hawthorne blossoms and hedgerows and Canterbury bells. It's as much the backbone of a gardener's career as apainter's. Wear it over loose but not too floppy trousers, white stripes marching with military precision down their blue sides, and you are ready to deal with anything from fertilizer to the darling buds of June. What's more, you'll look really beguiling sitting under an apple tree drinking lemonade (or the laborer's reward: beer!) after you've done your stint.

* * *

THE ORIGIN of the garden hat has been pretty generally forgotten, so used are we to seeing it flutter up the aisle at weddings. Maybe this authentic sort should be called a gardening hat. It's wide, sun proof and light on the head. If you want to tan, of course, do your digging bareheaded, but you'd better tie a big sports hankie round your neck or you'll have a lobster red V to show when you dress for the evening.

Alumnae of Hood Plans Pageant On Saturday

On Saturday afternoon, the Alumnae Association of Hood College in Frederick, Md., will present a pageant in honor of Dr. Joseph H. Apple, who has just completed his fortieth year as president of the college. The pageant, "Light Comes to the Valley," will be given on the college campus. It was written by various members and friends of the association, and depicts the steps of progress in the growth and expansion of the institution.

The prologue of the pageant was written by Folger McKinsey, of the Baltimore Sun, sometimes known as the Bentztown Bard, and the reader will be Mrs. William Channing Johnson (Sallie Conrad Fauntleroy), who formerly taught drama at Hood.

The seven episodes have numerous authors, including Mrs. Henrietta Sayre Miller, Sewickley; Miss Margaret Motter, '13, Frederick, Md.; Mrs. Cara Smiley Hogshead, '97, Middlebrook, Va.; Mrs. Janie Quynn Delaplane, '08, Frederick, Md..; Mrs. Sallie Sharp Messick, '13, Seaford, Del.; Mrs. Myrtle Garber Kurtz, '06, Mifflinsburg, Pa.; Miss Medora Mantz, '16, Oneonta, N. Y.; Mrs. Margaret Cameron Bowers, '11 Wadsworth, O.; Miss Sue Wood, '28, Norristown, Pa.; Miss Georgianna S. Gittinger, '12, Frederick, Md.; Miss Lydia Caplan, '31, York, Pa., and Miss Mary Esther Tull, '24, Frederick, Md.

Now Our Money Won't Be Hidden In Back Teeth

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Good news to hear that silver and notes are now legal tender for all debts, commercial, card or hoss.

Gold is too easy to hide. A dentist told us it would all be in back teeth inside a hundred years.

You can sink the miser's metal in the ground, pack it under the carpet or hide it in the coal bin.

Silver is just as shiny and jingles just as loud. It's music in the pocket and bounces happily on the grocer's counter.

When the Indians ran Long Island they used clam shells for dollars. On Easter Island the natives use grindstones. They keep their noses to as many as possible.

Proves that money is just a medium of exchange and that a man with a string of empty spools can be as happy as a king if he wants to feel that bad about it.

And the note idea ain't bad. We are going to issue ours for 90 days. And postpone them if it rains.

Olive oil protects the youth of lovely skin

—and it's olive oil that makes Palmolive green

NOTHING—from ancient times to the present—has ever equalled the precious oils of olive and palm to keep skin young, fresh, radiant.

It is these cosmetic oils that give Palmolive its great beauty value. They give it the natural green color millions know and prize. They give it, too, that delicate fragrance and bland, creamy lather—lotion-like in its effect on the skin.

And now that it is selling at the lowest price in history, Palmolive is the natural choice of millions for the bath as well as hands and face. The whole family can enjoy the luxury of this beauty soap, today.

Experts advise this treatment

Morning and evening, work a bland, creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water into the skin of face, neck and throat. Rinse, first with warm water, then with cold.

The vial at the right shows the exact amount of olive oil we put into each cake of Palmolive

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

MEAT PACKER REPORTS GAIN

Medical science has acknowledged the rightful place of meat in the diet during the last three or four years, according to M. J. Hennessey, president of the Dunlevy-Franklin Company, said to be the oldest meat-packing organization in Allegheny County. He declared:

"Doctors have come to believe that meat is a part of any balanced diet. The per-capita consumption of meat fell off very little during the depression because prices were steadily lowered to meet falling wages. Now there is a definite up-trend in prices. This has been evident since the Roosevelt administration began. Six weeks ago the trend was marked and has shown a steady increase since then."

WORKERS GAIN

The number of employees has been increased at the Dunlevy-Franklin Company since the advent of beer, Mr. Hennessey said. He continued:

"Beer has been a blessing to the meat packing industry. It has given a tremendous impetus to appetites for cold cuts. Twenty different loaves, cooked and ready to serve, have been developed in our cold cuts department to meet this new demand."

According to a record in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, the Dunlevy-Franklin Company originated in the old Walker-Cooper Boat Store Supply Company on Water street in 1852. It supplied meats to river traffic which was heavy in those days. In 1880 the firm became Walker-Dunlevy Brothers. A packing house was built on Twenty-third street and a store at 615 Liberty avenue.

METHODS CHANGE

Charles Binder, 62, the present shipping clerk at the Dunlevy-Franklin Company, has been with the organization since 1888. As a contrast to present delivery methods, whereby a fleet of 30 trucks make daily deliveries within a radius of 100 miles, Binder recalls a delivery of four cans of lard he made with a wheelbarrow years ago. The barrow broke down on Liberty avenue, he said, and he was compelled to appeal to a man with a wagon to aid in making delivery.

Gains Dazzle, But U. S. Still Below Normal.

By B. C. FORBES

NEW HIGH records for the year are being achieved.

New 1933 peaks were registered last week by stocks and also by bonds.

Mr. Forbes

New 1933 tops have been registered by agricultural commodities, by important raw materials.

New 1933 levels have been registered by retail buying, by factory production, by employment, by wages.

New 1933 heights have been registered by railway traffic, power consumption and other dependable yardsticks of economic activity.

Not less important, new 1933 improvement in sentiment has been registered.

"OUR MAY gains are almost too good to be believed," various manufacturers confided to me last week. The transformation is so pronounced that they doubt whether it can possibly continue—such is the degree of pessimism and skepticism three years of depression have implanted in men's minds.

Take one example of many. Executive Vandersee, of Dodge, gave me these detailed figures on Friday:

"Dodge dealers during the first quarter of this year took delivery of 20,196 Dodge cars, Dodge trucks and Plymouth cars. Orders received from May 1 to May 25 reached 25,039."

Here is an increase of approximately 25 per cent in a little over three weeks over the entire first three months of the year. He added that all indications are that, contrary to precedent, June promises to do even better.

I CHATTED with many steel executives, gathered in convention last week. The tenor of many a remark was:

"The rebound seems too wonderful to last."

In the financial district one encounters similar expressions regarding the spectacular rise in stocks and lower priced bonds.

THE WRITER has countered doubting Thomases by pointing out that the total volume of business, of traffic, of freight, of power consumption, of retail trade, of employment is still far below normal, and that stocks and the ordinary run of bonds are still quoted far below normal, that, therefore, there is still room for much greater improvement, especially since we are still operating under financial deflation rather than the financial inflation which is confidently expected in at least moderate degree.

THIS COLUMN has previously published tables showing the advances achieved in the market value of stocks, agricultural commodities and basic raw materials.

Let us now analyze the betterment achieved by bonds of representative industrial, utility and railway companies:

ALTHOUGH Washington causes uneasiness in conservative breasts by some of its revolutionary economic and financial proposals, plans, programs and legislative enactments, the fact is that rising faith in America's future is being recorded impressively by concrete developments in trade, industry, farm products, raw materials, securities, employment and wages.

At that, we are, it is well to note and remember, still far under the normal line rather than on a dizzy level.

SCENES RECALL PREVIOUS BULL MARKETS

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, May 30.—New "shots" of inflation dope last week ran the stock market up at a dizzy pace. If one had gone to sleep in a broker's office in 1929 and awakened Saturday he would have noticed little difference in what was going on. Many of the same people would have been there, and the tape would have been late.

Saturday made even the Coolidge and Hoover "bull markets" look tame. There can now be no question but that "the public" is in. Many who have been waiting, as I have, hoping that inflation would not be forced upon us, have taken the plunge.

They have been pushed in by fresh indications of the uncertainty as to the value of money. First, a step was taken at the initiative of the government to start the authorized unloading of three billions of government "bonds" on the banking system. Then somebody "decided" to put the final seal on our abandonment of the gold standard by legalizing the repudiation of the gold clauses in bonds.

'HOARDING' STOCK

So the dollar plunged down in exchange for other currencies, and stock and commodities plunged up in terms of paper dollars. The public is now "hoarding" stock and commodities, while the government hoards gold. Only debtors want paper.

This last move probably finds its closest parallel in the jump of April 20, following the gold embargo. The "gap" at the opening was wider this time, and the public participation greater. The hourly volume of trading was a record. It is, therefore, interesting to note that the Saturday gain in the averages was less than on April 20, and that the percentage of issues which showed declines was larger.

As the tape got later and later, most stocks ceased to show gains, and little progress was made after the first half hour.

'CLIMAX' INDICATED

The huge volume and the evidence of the willingness of pools to make big mark-ups in the price of their wares would ordinarily indicate a "climax." Certainly, too, the psychology of awaiting a reaction finally broke down. Just remember that over four million shares were sold by somebody Saturday morning in two hours.

What should we do now? We are forced to gamble in stocks or commodities if we are to make up the 15 per cent decline in the value of our money. If it is to be depreciated further, further gambling will be required.

Really the logical gamble is in commodities, since inflation affects them directly. Higher raw materials and wages, and operating restrictions imposed by "industrial control," may actually keep the profits of corporations down.

But such considerations as yet have no effect, and by popular consent the stock market is now the great gambling machine for betting on inflation and winning back enough more dollars to offset the reduced value of each dollar.

COUNCIL RUNS 'SHANTYTOWN'

Father Cox is quite proud of his "Shantytown" because this community of 350 unemployed men is so excellently organized that everything runs as smoothly as clockwork. In fact many of the men in this unique village are nearly self-supporting.

Father Cox is "Mayor of Shantytown" and the activities of the community are conducted by a council which includes John Palgar, John Straha, John Carry, John Kovalsky, Frank Sernik, Andy Pavlik, Steve Seiecky, Pitro Silian and Mike Balocky—all old-timers in "Shantytown."

Father Cox was given another check by the Sun-Telegraph yesterday covering commissions in his drive for subscriptions. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

MAJ. GEN. CRONKHITE

GENERAL PLANS DEDICATION

The 80th Division Veterans' Association will dedicate a plot of ground in Allegheny County Memorial Park at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon as the official burial grounds for the division. The dedication ceremony will be under the auspices of the Gen. Lloyd M. Brett Post. Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, war-time commander of the division, will deliver the dedicatory address.

Other speakers will include Judge Ralph H. Smith, of the Allegheny County Courts; Col. Robert G. Woodside, past national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Col. James L. Costello, representing the 28th Division, and Capt. John E. Sugden, who will preside. Appropriate music will be furnished by the Allegheny County Memorial Park male quartet, with Mrs. Christine Miller Clemson as soloist.

All veterans in Allegheny County and all veteran organizations are asked to participate. A number of the posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars will send uniformed firing squads, bands and drum and bugle corps.

SALES OF SUITS INCREASE

CLEVELAND, O., May 29.—With woolen prices up approximately 35 per cent and all signs pointing to correspondingly higher clothing prices, foresighted men have started a rush to take advantage of present depression prices of suits, trousers and other outer garments. Many are buying two, three and even four suits, and in some cases are buying their fall and winter topcoats and overcoats.

The Richman Brothers' factory and other clothing plants are running full time with complete working forces.

Businessmen are surprised to see how well-informed their customers are regarding the price advances that are taking place in wholesale markets. These advances have not yet started to make themselves felt in the stores.

Week Ends in Fireworks To Greet Actual Inflation

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

LAST WEEK ENDED in a blaze of financial glory. We are speaking of the stock and commodity markets. The display of fireworks appeared to be in welcome of government moves toward actual monetary inflation.

There has been much talk of inflation during the past 10 weeks. Elaborate legislative and administrative preparations have been made for it. But there has been no real inflation.

Even the discontinuance of the redemption of the dollar in gold did not mean that inflation was taking place. The abandonment of the gold standard by the United States was a preparatory move. Obviously any intimation that monetary inflation was to take place would be followed by a stampede of gold from the country. The embargo against exportation of gold and the legislation making it a crime to hold gold were precautions against such a stampede.

The stage has been set for several weeks but the curtain has not been raised. Several moves by the government last week have been interpreted in financial circles as equivalent to the orchestra starting to play the overture. The show is about to begin.

Congress Gives Wide Powers to President

CONGRESS HAS GIVEN wide powers to the President. It is doubtful if any American in the past has had such authority. But these powers were to be used when, as and if necessary. The President had the tools to start monetary inflation, but no actual work had been done. The sharp improvement in business starting after the reopening of banks made actual steps unnecessary. Other factors were performing the task assigned to inflation.

We are in the period when a seasonal recession usually takes place in business. Up to the present time the effects of seasonal influences have not been particularly noticeable except in a slight retardation of the rate of increase. Apparently, however, the administration does not intend to leave the events of the summer of 1933 to chance. Business is to be given stimulation to keep it from going to sleep.

This policy was reflected in launching of a program by the Federal Reserve System to increase money in circulation by buying United States government securities. The Postal Savings System was ordered to help with an order for $100,000,000. Administration legislation was presented in Congress to utterly abolish the established ratio of the dollar to gold. Real monetary inflation seems about to begin.

* * *

Economists Do Not Agree on Policies

ALL ECONOMISTS do not agree on the wisdom of the inflationary policy. To many of the older school, the plans are heretical. It is quite true that many of the governments in the past which resorted to inflation ended at utter collapses similar to the German situation after the war when the value of the mark dropped out of sight. But such results have not invariably followed. France finally stabilized its franc at about one-fifth of its former value. England restored the pound to its prewar gold rate a few years after the war.

Inflation might be compared to the use of alcohol. There may be times when a good shot of brandy would revive jaded spirits and give new energy and courage when initiative would be utterly gone. But this would be different from a jag similar to the German monetary debauch.

The secret lies not so much in the remedy as in the ability to stop its use at the proper time. If the dollar can be stabilized in the future, after business has been given a needed push but before the process of inflation has gone to a point which will be followed by painful consequences, the treatment will have been successful.

POTTER DROPS AFFILIATE

The Potter Title and Trust Company and the Potter Title and Mortgage Guarantee Company, recognizing the advisability of the separation of banks from affiliated investment companies, announce the following actions:

The name of the Potter Title and Mortgage Guarantee Company has been changed to the Pittsburgh Title and Mortgage Guarantee Company, under the management of officers who have no connection whatever with the bank.

None of the officers of the bank is now either a director or officer of the Pittsburgh Title and Mortgage Guarantee Company.

The bank will confine itself only to the banking and trust business.

Steel Production Continues Upward

CLEVELAND, May 29.—(AP.)—Steelworks operations for the week ending May 27 showed an increase for the ninth consecutive week, the magazine Steel said today in a review which also stressed an "encouraging broadening of the entire iron and steel market foundation."

A dozen or more factors were listed by the magazine as contributing to the broadening movement.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Many Youngsters Are Much Different Than Parents

Must it be "like mother like daughter?"

Sam's wondering.

He loves a girl, and until he saw her mamma he thought she was his Dream Girl. But now he is not so sure, for—

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I am writing this letter to you because I know that your experience has been so much broader than mine, and you have seen so much more than I have, and know human beings so much better, I need advice from somebody who has seen many different kinds of people, and seen the way different people work out, and how they develop.

You see I am just a young man, 26, so I really haven't a great deal of experience at judging people. I don't know the background of the various ones I see around me, and I doubt my ability to judge how the other young folks I know will turn out.

To get down to cases, I am in love. But I am wondering if the future with the girl I love will bring happiness or misery. She doesn't live here; that is, her folks don't. She has been working here and has a small apartment. She seems intelligent. She seems sweet, and generous, and good-natured. About two months ago I asked her to marry me, and she said "yes." I was very happy, and dreamed of a beautiful future.

Then she took me home with her to meet her parents, and the dream didn't look so bright.

PARENTS CAUSE DOUBT

Her father is an opinionated man with a perpetual grouch. I don't remember a single subject that was mentioned during the whole week-end I was there, that didn't start him off on a pessimistic tirade of some kind. He made mean remarks to her mother, and even to her. I don't think he smiled once.

Her mother is a continual nagger. She and the father quarreled continually, and neither one of them seems to care a particle how they look. Her father sat around in a vest and his shirt-sleeves, often with no tie. Her mother wore sloppy clothes and looked as if her hair needed combing. The home was neither too neat nor too clean. There was no order anywhere.

Now Sadie, my girl, keeps her own apartment neat and clean and as I said, she seems good-natured. But don't daughters usually grow to be like their mothers? Will she get sloppy, when she "settles down" into marriage? Won't she consider a home like her mother keeps "just the usual thing?"

I am really deeply in love with her now, but I know I could never stay in love with a sloppy, nagging wife. I want to make a success of my marriage, and I am wondering whether a successful marriage can be made, with a girl with a background like that.

What do you think? Will she get like that background?

SAM.

SHOWED COURAGE

Will she take after the old folks? Not necessarily, son. Chances are that home looks to her like a "horrible example," which she'll avoid like the plague all her life.

And the proof of that is—she's avoiding it now. She took you home out of loyalty, which is a mighty fine quality. But she has had the strength of character to separate herself from the quarreling and the slovenliness, and to be what she wanted to be.

It takes a lot of courage for a young girl to do that, Sam. She has to meet plenty of bickering and bewailing from the family and criticism from her conventional friends. Courage and loyalty—these two things she has already proven that she has. And with such assets, I wouldn't worry about the future if I were you.

So stop fussing, Son, and appreciate her for the grand youngster that she is. She has seen plenty of grief. Help her not to see any more. Forget your suspicions. Believe in her. Give her a break and the chances are she'll give you one.

If you can't do that—if you're going to continually watch her for "signs of getting like her mother"—then let her go, for you'll wreck both your lives.

That's my answer to Sam. What's yours?

Do you believe Sadie will get like Mamma?

WHY WORRY ABOUT ANYTHING IN YOUR PAST - THEN WAS THEN AND NOW IS NOW WHO WANTS TO KNOW?

By FAY KING

Then was then, and now is now!

That should explain satisfactorily anything of the past to yourself or others.

Nothing more need be said or thought on the matter.

Life is a continuous march onward. What we once were, or what we once did, is no more than a bit of scenery we passed on our journey.

We do not waste time explaining or apologizing now, because we shed tears of sorrow over a broken doll in childhood. Why should we? That was then.

And so with sterner things in life. Do not waste time regretting, or explaining to the curious. Today well lived makes for a better tomorrow, but we can never change our yesterdays.

Remember the best of them and forget the rest!

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Sees Nick Carrying Limp, Bound Figure

It was the hated voice of Nick, the gangster, that came to me in the darkness, demanding triumphantly that I see what he had for me.

But Tony and conjectures concerning his fate were blotted from my mind as I turned my eyes in the direction from which Nick's voice had come, and saw his form silhouetted in the lessening darkness. For I saw that he bore in his arms the shrouded figure that I believed was Marion.

"Marion! darling child!" I choked out the words as I rushed to that shrouded figure and attempted to tear away the cruel gag from her mouth. But Nick turned her away from me so that I could not touch her, and spoke rapidly.

"Nix on loosening things now, Baby. We can't risk having her screaming all over the place. Besides," he added callously, "I think she's fainted away anyway. I suppose having me grab her as she was rolling herself away from that bird the kid's trimming back there, didn't help compose her mind any. She thought she was out of the frying pan into the fire, I guess."

LISTENS TO PLANS

How I ever resisted the impulse to scream aloud, to tear Marion from him, to strike from his callous face the smirk that I knew was there, I do not know.

"But what are you going to do with her? We can't stand here in the road, and I must try to revive her."

"You said a mouthful there, Baby," Nick rejoined cheerfully, "but I've got it all doped out. You can trust your old uncle. I'm a good fixer. Here's what we're going to do——"

I clinched my fingers into my palms when he stopped and waited, apparently listening. Marion might die in that swoon, I told myself in excited anguish while this unspeakable person gloated over his own cleverness.

"We're going to make for that fence and you're going to help me get this little lady over it. When we get far enough into the field so a small scream won't hurt, we can take off these things and you can take care of her."

"Then, oh, hurry!" I breathed.

CARRIED TO SAFETY

He rose from his stooping position, carrying Marion as if she were the traditional feather, and I followed him, keeping as close to Marion's unconscious form as I could. But I did not touch her or attempt to speak to her, for I knew that Nick had seized upon the only possible plan under the circumstances, and I would not presume to hinder it by impulsive word or action. But when he gave her unconscious figure into my arms while he scaled the fence, it took all the will power I possessed to relinquish her to him again.

I set my teeth and managed it, however, following him over the plowed furrows of the field, fearing at every step that he or I would stumble. He was pursuing a diagonal course away from the vicinity of Jerry's, and I realized why, when we came to a little thicket of bushes around a large tree. He skirted this and set his burden down upon the road.

"There! Baby," he said, kneeling by Marion's side and looking up at me. "Now we can get to work on her. I'll loosen this gag—I've had more experience in that line than you have, I guess ——" he chuckled again. "But you be ready to clap a hand over her mouth if she comes out of this faint and starts to scream. We've been lucky, so far. If those birds of Jerry's aren't buffaloed enough by now to beat it back to the home stables, I won't light a cig for a week. But I don't want 'em to get next to the place we've planted the little dame."

"Do you mean?" I asked breathlessly, "that those men of Jerry's, and—and—your friend, Tony, haven't been injured in all this shooting?"

Correct Manners

Graduation Address

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the president of a 1933 class of nurses, and I have to present a bouquet of flowers to the Superintendent of Nurses at our graduating exercises next month.

Shall I begin with:

"Superintendent of Nurses (her name), members of the faculty staff (doctors), Class of 1933 (nurses), ladies and gentlemen (the audience)—In appreciation for your patient guidance, unfailing efforts and words of wisdom, and the benefits we have received to enable us to be graduated and become fit nurses and live up to the standards of our profession, we present these flowers to you, and hope that the following classes will reap the benefit of your excellent teachings."

Do I address all of the above, and are they in order?

Is the speech too brief? Do the words have sense, and are they arranged correctly? Can you suggest a better form?

I do not want to be criticised for a meaningless group of words, but I want to show our appreciation for all the superintendent has done for us. P.

The sequence of your salutations is correct. First, the Superintendent of Nurses, calling her by her name rather than by her title, next, "Members of the Faculty"—not "doctors" and not "faculty staff;" "Class of 1933" —not "Nurses," and "Ladies and Gentlemen."

I like your speech very much, but I'd like to make two suggestions. I'd like to have you put first, "We present these flowers to you," for this order would, I believe, make it easier for your audience to follow. Then, too, I suggest that you end your speech with "standards of our profession." It makes the presentation more personal if you limit your words to your own class and their appreciation.

A Real 'Rocker'

If you have some one in the home who rocks incessantly in the comfortable rocking chair and unconsciously makes marks on the polished floor, turn the chair upside down and glue strips of felt weather stripping along the under side of the rockers. Then the person may rock to his or her heart's content and no damage will be done.

If Tonsil Operation Is Needed Do Not Delay

There is a popular notion that tonsils and adenoids should be removed only during warm weather. In consequence, many anxious mothers are now worried about this operation.

Dr. Copeland

Some ask whether I think it advisable to have the child's tonsils removed. I cannot advise in a particular case because it is impossible to determine without a personal examination. But I can tell you a few facts about tonsils and adenoids.

The tonsils are two round-shaped soft masses located on each side of the throat. The tonsils m... large and usually do so when infected. As they increase in size, they approach each other in the middle of the throat. This condition leads to pain and difficulty in swallowing.

Tonsils that are enlarged but not diseased, should not be removed. Undoubtedly, they will shrink as the child grows older. But diseased tonsils that obstruct the throat, causing repeated ... throats and attacks of tonsilitis, should be removed. They are a source of danger and hinder the health and welfare of the child.

It is easier to determine whether adenoids should be removed. Adenoids are the soft tissue found in the throat back of the nose. This tissue should be removed when it interferes with normal breathing.

Children with adenoids breathe through the mouth instead of through the nose. These children are backward in their school work and suffer from frequent head colds and recurring ear infections. They are underweight and are extremely susceptible to infectious diseases.

The question is often asked, how old should a child be before his tonsils or adenoids are removed. Ordinarily, this operation should not be performed before a child is two and a half years of age. In certain cases, where there is marked enlargement and difficulty in breathing, the operation may be performed sooner. It should never be done during an acute attack of tonsilitis or during the course of any fever.

Parents need not dread having the child's tonsils and adenoids removed. It is a simple procedure and need cause no alarm. They may be removed at any time of the year. Whenever possible, it is best to have the operation performed at a hospital, where the child may rest over night and receive the necessary care.

Occasionally children continue to have difficulty in breathing even after the tonsils and adenoids are removed. This may be due to sinus trouble: in that case the nose is filled with the nasal secretions.

Difficult nose breathing may be caused by year-round hay fever. In rare instances it can be traced to a narrow and highly arched jaw. This may be corrected by the use of metal braces on the teeth which serve to reduce the arch and spread the jaw.

When difficult breathing is due to hay fever, special vaccines are recommended. The results are satisfactory and well worth the effort.

If you are in doubt about the condition of your child's throat, consult your doctor. He will advise you after examining the patient.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

THE WINNER of the contest is surely a frock just shown by a new designer—the contest being to decide just which frock employs the most material. This frock is of white chiffon, of which 30 yards is used. The material is cut in bias strips and plaited, the strips used vertically. Tiny crystal touches add to the beauty of the frock.

IN THE SHADE means that we wear brimmed hats when the sun gleams too brightly. A delightful hat for summer is a wide brimmed model of pale yellow novelty straw. The brim dips in front and is edged with blue velvet. Blue velvet ribbon bands the crown and is carried to the under brim through a slot. Under the brim, to the back, are blue velvet flowers.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

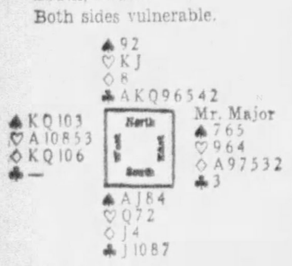
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Opening Leads and the Play of the Dummy

The Opening lead quite often is the factor that determines the success or failure of a contract, as the hand below, which was sent to me by Mr. Montgomery Major, of Wilmette, Ill., clearly demonstrates. In spite of somewhat over-enthusiastic bidding, Declarer was able to fulfill his contract in this case as a result of an unfortunate Opening lead, which he took full advantage of in his skillful play of the Dummy. Incidentally, since the "killing" lead, as the cards lay, was in a suit bid by West, South, the Opening leader, could hardly be blamed for not making it.

South, Dealer.

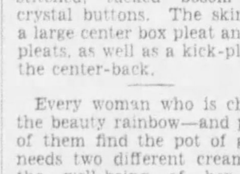
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♡	3 ♣	Pass
4 ♣	5 ♣	Double	5 ◇
Pass	Pass	Pass

South opened the club Knave, and the Declarer, Mr. Major, saw at once that he would probably lose two hearts and one spade trick, and thus be set 1 trick. The Opening lead was trumped with the diamond 10 in Dummy to provide re-entries to the closed hand, which was woefully shy of them. Then the diamond King and Queen were led, and the latter was overtaken with the Ace in the closed hand. The lead of the spade 5 was ducked by South, and Mr. Major finessed the Ten. When this held, the spade King was laid down, and South, fearing a third round of the suit would be ruffed, won the trick with the Ace. He then led the heart 2, upon which a low heart was played from Dummy, and which North won with the King. Unwilling to give the Declarer a ruff in one hand and a discard in the other, he returned the Knave of hearts, which was won in the Dummy. The prospects of success now appeared much better from the standpoint of the Declarer. The diamond 6 was led from the Dummy and won with the 9 in the closed hand. Two more rounds of trumps followed, hearts being discarded from the Dummy. The situation at the eleventh trick, with East to lead, was:



When the last trump was led, South was squeezed. To discard the heart Queen would establish the heart 9 for the Declarer. A discard of the spade 4 would make both of the spades in the Dummy good.

A very well played hand by Mr. Major.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You have bid one spade, and your partner has responded with one no-trump. What do you bid, holding:

♠ A K Q J 7 5 ♡ K 8 3 ◇ K Q J 6 ♣ —

Answer—Three diamonds.

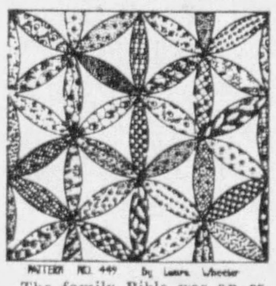
The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Be comfortable this summer and wear the shirtmaker frocks that are so smart and wearable. A new model is made of canary yellow cravat silk. It has a stitched, tucked bosom with crystal buttons. The skirt has a large center box pleat and side pleats, as well as a kick-pleat in the center-back.

Every woman who is chasing the beauty rainbow—and plenty of them find the pot of gold—needs two different creams for the well-being of her complexion, a light cold cream to use as a cleanser and to allay surface irritations like chapped skin or sunburn, and a heavy emollient to apply at night in defense of youthful appearance. A thin cream offers no resistance, so isn't much good when it comes to ironing out facial creases.

PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



A diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for a pattern for this design to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The family Bible was an essential possession of every American family in times past, its stories being the inspiration for many of the old quilt names. Here, most aptly named, is Joseph's Coat. Inspired by the Biblical story of Joseph's coat of many colors that moved his brothers to envy, this quilt, too, is made of many-hued scraps of material, and, like the coat, will arouse envy in those who do not possess it. Though the variety of its many materials is its chief charm, it could be carried out in two materials, for the simple pattern pieces, when joined, produce interlacing flowers over the entire quilt.

The pattern comes to you with complete simple, instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and

PIRATES SEE NEW MENACE IN CARDS

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

RUSHING CARDS CHALLENGE FOR LEAD

AS FAR AS the dropping of the second game in Cincinnati yesterday is concerned, it may be said in defense of the Pirates that they were due to lose a decision to the Reds after beating them six times in a row, and that, besides, it was merely a case of an old jinx in the person of Eppa Rixey having regained his mastery over them temporarily. There is no doubt that Rixey was operating with his best stuff, following two unsuccessful starts against the Bucs this spring. His exceptional edge is proved by the fact that he gave the Rovers their third shutout of the year, held them to five hits and stopped the hitting streak of Lloyd Waner after Little Poison had batted safely in 12 consecutive games for an average of .407 during that period.

Eppy Rixey

From that angle the defeat can be made to look like just a temporary straying from the winning path. But viewed from another slant, it becomes part of the poorest streak the Bucs have had this season, and suggests the need for an early brace. For of their last nine games, the Pirates have lost five, and if they don't improve that pace they may find themselves ousted from first place very soon, as meantime those Cardinals have won nine of their last 10 engagements to pass the Giants and climb to within a game and a half of the Corsairs and the top.

CHARLEY RUFFING has finished seven out of eight games started for the Yankees this season, and he has started against all of the other clubs except the Senators.

One reason why Ruffing, like Red Lucas, of Cincinnati, completes so many games each year is that in addition to being a fine pitcher he is also an exceptional hitter among the slabmen. They don't have to lift Ruffing or Lucas for a pinch-hitter when the club is trailing, as is done with other pitchers. Each can do his bit with a bat. Ruffing hit .306 last year and Lucas .287.

IT IS SAID that the Cardinals would like to trade Dazzy Vance back to the Dodgers for Owen Carroll, but from the Brooklyn camp comes word that this won't happen as long as Max Carey is conscious.

Perhaps Vance will do better later, but his old Dodger mates doubt it. They say that where Daz made his greatest mistake was in neglecting to develop a slow ball while he was king of the National League pitchers. Had he acquired a good floater he now would be better equipped to meet the turning point in his career.

YOU MAY FIND it hard to believe that a quarter of a century has drifted by since Fred Merkle cost the Giants a pennant through his famous oversight in failing to touch second base, but it's a fact. September 23 will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the historic blunder that changed the outcome of the National League pennant race of 1908. "That was the hardest defeat the Giants ever suffered under my management," said John McGraw in discussing the Merkle play. "Merkle received a terrible panning for his mistake, but it was an error that had been made by hundreds of other players before him. I kept Merkle on my team for eight years after that unfortunate incident. He wasn't a bonehead at all, but a great ball player, faithful and smart."

Col. Jacob Ruppert

COL. JACOB RUPPERT is one major league magnate who is able at a time of artificial double-headers to show a strong faith in the future of baseball. Either that, or he scents a boom in other sports that use his New York park. At any rate he has decided to enlarge the Yankee Stadium.

The right wing of the triple-deck grandstand will be extended beyond the foul line into the territory now occupied by the wooden bleachers. The bleachers, which seat 20,000, will be replaced with a double-deck concrete structure connecting the two wings of the grandstand.

RUPPERT HAS NOT yet decided when to have the contractors begin work, but a start may be made while the Yankees are traveling in the West next month. When the improvements have been completed the seating capacity for baseball games will be 85,000.

By putting 15,000 additional seats on the field, it will be possible to seat 100,000 spectators at a big fight show, and for such football attractions as the Notre Dame-Army game, temporary field boxes and extra bleachers will make the number of vantage points 90,000.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE Indianapolis Speedway, which will be the scene of the big annual 500-mile race tomorrow, was started in 1909 and completed in 1910. The grounds cover 443 acres. The grandstand seats 65,000, and the track is so arranged that 150,000 additional patrons can view the race from standing places on the infield. The track is 2½ miles long and 50 feet wide, extending to 50 feet at the turns. It is surfaced with 3,200,000 paving blocks. The front and back straightaways are 3,300 feet long and the turns are 132 feet each, with short straightaways of 660 feet at the north and south ends. The first race was run in 1911, and the only interruptions were in 1917-18. Ralph De Palma, a starter in the original race, covered more miles on the Speedway than any other driver. He was in 10 races, finished first once, went the full distance five times and covered all told 4,061 miles.

FOLLOWING THE CANCELLATION of the match between Top Flight and Tred Avon, which had been scheduled for tomorrow until Top Flight pulled up very lame, turf followers have turned their attention to the oldest and most famous racing number in the world, England's Epsom Derby, to be run at Epsom Downs on Wednesday.

The English Derby is 153 years old, having been run first in 1780. Crowds of from 500,000 to 1,000,000 have thronged the neighborhood of the course on the day of the race. The event is for 3-year-olds at a mile and 881 yards. The race this year is expected to be one of the most open in years, with possibly as many as 30 starters to equal the field record of 1914-22. The smallest field was seven starters, in 1894 and 1903. The favored horses this year are Hyperion, Young Lover, King Salmon, Manitoba and Rodosto, the last named a French entry.

THERE'S APT TO be plenty of fighting in that Los Angeles tilt tonight in which Young Corbett III defends the world welterweight championship against Jimmy McLarnin. Neither principal ever runs away from it, and the aggressiveness of both offers the promise that there will be no dull moments.

Young Corbett

McLarnin has beaten a flock of champions without ever winning a title, and has been called the uncrowned king of the welters Now he gets his first chance to grab off a championship for himself, but there is no assurance that he will be able to get away with it. He has a big contract on hand in trying to give Corbett the latter's first defeat.

M'LARNIN WILL HAVE to be at his very best to stand a chance to win, and there is some doubt that he is as good as he used to be. He still can hit, is by far the better puncher of the two, and if there is a knockout he is likely to be the one to score it. Otherwise, with the bout going the 10-round limit, a decision to Corbett would not be at all surprising. It takes a real fighter to beat men like Jackie Fields and Young Jack Thompson, and McLarnin will have to be in possession of all he ever owned to escape defeat. Jimmy's chances will not be helped by the fact that Corbett is a southpaw. McLarnin never liked them.

TRIALS, DELAYED BY DEATH OF TWO, ENDED

By JOHN C. HOFFMAN
International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29.—The field of 42 cars is complete and the twenty-first international 500-mile race against time and death can go on tomorrow at the Speedway.

Qualification of two drivers today closed the list of entrants for the spectacle of speed and daring that will be viewed by more than 10,000 tomorrow. Forty-two of the fastest speed pilots in the world will roar into the first turn in the motor classic.

Flashing around the two and one-half mile brick oval at an average speed of 110.001 miles an hour, Ralph Hepburn, Los Angeles daredevil, won the last starting position. Hepburn eliminated Gene Haustein, who previously had qualified at a lower speed.

THREE DRIVERS FAIL

Phil Shafer, Des Moines, Ia., qualified his Shafer Eight Special at 107.972 miles an hour to earn a position as alternate driver. Both Shafer and Hepburn were permitted to rerun five qualifying laps early today as rain interfered with their eleventh-hour attempts to qualify Sunday.

Maurice Rose, of Dayton, O., apparently was well on the way to a place in the race this morning, for he had turned nine laps at an average of 108.014, when he was forced to pull up because of a broken tie rod. Leon Dehart, of Indianapolis, and Danny Day, of Tipton, Ind., were other drivers who tried to qualify this morning. Both failed to get up to the required average of 100 miles per hour.

Assuming a philosophical attitude following the interruption of speed trials yesterday by the grim specter of death, the goggled drivers today awaited the starter's flag with undimmed enthusiasm. To them it is still fun to drive at pluse-quickening speed and to receive the most coveted prize in motordom.

DRIVER, MECHANIC KILLED

Car No. 42 won't be in the race tomorrow and neither will William Denver, of Audubon, Pa., driver, and Robert U. Hurst, of Indianapolis, mechanic, both of whom were killed in the trials yesterday. For them the race against time is ended.

Denver was at the controls of

BUCCOS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL WITH REDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Bold Buccaneers of Pittsburgh were pestered considerably by a chirping flock of Redbirds today as the Buccos tried to get some relaxation. The Cardinals have pecked away at the Pirate lead so consistently in the past week they are now in a spot where they could vault into the honor position of the National League on one day's notice. To be more explicit, the Cards, trailing the pace-setting Pittsburghers by one and one-half games, could dislodge the Freebooters, were Gibby's crew to have a run of ill misfortune in the Memorial Day dual bill scheduled for tomorrow. Charley Grimm's Cubs will be the holiday attraction.

Gibby led his swashbuckling Buccos into the home port this morning. The Rovers spent yesterday in Cincinnati, where they engaged the Reds in a 50-50 double-header. Twenty thousand fans didn't feel so good as Larry French scored his third triumph of the season over the Rhinelanders, but there was much jollification in the twilight affair with Eppa Jeptha Rixey dishing out a row of goose eggs to the Bucs. The scores were 4-2 and 4-0.

REDBIRDS FLYING HIGH

Boss Gibson called off all practice activities today. The date was made open in order to accommodate the Braves, who were in Pittsburgh recently. A dual bill between the Tribe and the Pirates was staged to cancel a one-day jump which the schedule originally set for today.

The Cardinals, more than incidentally, are playing the best ball on display in the league at present. The Redbirds were off to a poor start, but in the past two weeks they have found a pounding stride which has steam-rolled practically every club in the league. The figures today show the Redbirds to have won as many games as have the Pirates, but they have three more losses on their debit side.

LARRY'S CONTROL GREAT

French was as steady as a clock in "Zinzinnati" yesterday which is why the Buccos were able to get an even break with the Reds. Larry did not issue a pass as he appeared to have the enemy well in hand right from the opening inning when his club gave him a lead of two runs.

Red Lucas, the hard-hitting sharpshooter of the Rhineland staff, traveled the entire pitching distance with French and was good except in the two scoring frames.

Rixey exercised complete mastery over the first-placers in the nightcap. Eppa Jeptha was just the man the home club needed to break the spell which the Pittsburghers had held on the Reds. When Eppa went to the slab the Pirates were the possessors of six straight successes over the home guards. The big lefthander was found for only five hits.

Steve Swetonic, opposing Rixey, made a very poor jumpoff and did not survive the first round. Steve had been scored upon thrice before Waite Hoyt went to his rescue. Waite allowed one more run in the initial frame, but from that point to the finish he pitched runless ball.

Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, of Memphis, and Tracey Cox, of Indianapolis, are due in town today for their 10-round main bout featuring the opening show of the season at the North Braddock Bowl tomorrow night.

Final touches will be put on the arena today, according to Manager Joe Mazer, who reports everything will be in readiness to welcome the patrons for the evening of swat.

Meanwhile the Arena, on the North Side, is all set with its four 10-round bouts for its weekly show on Thursday night, and Hickey Park, in Millvale, is going ahead with plans for its Tommy Paul-Jackie Wilson return bout one week from tonight.

Between Rounds

Ed Frantz, Marine heavyweight, was a visitor in Pittsburgh Saturday night on his way to St. Paul, where he meets Charley Retzlaff on the night of June 9.

'Tis said Patsy Perroni, who meets Maxie Rosenbloom in a return bout in Cleveland's Stadium on June 15, has won his last 19 starts. He fought a draw with the light-heavyweight champion in Canton, O., two years ago.

Billy Flanagan, Braddock middleweight, is back in fighting trim and anxious for a return bout with Red Bruce. Carl A. Reichert, of Braddock, his manager, says that during his recent visit to New England Billy fought a draw with Al Gainer and knocked out Lou Bogash and Leo Larrivee and fought other bouts.

Andrew Black, of Duquesne, is seeking bouts for Dan Billick, 122-pounder; Joe Hughes, Negro 145-pounder, and Nick Maloy, heavyweight. He would like to match Billick with Charley Burns.

Reiber Is Winner Of Hill Climb

Herbert Reiber, of Galveston, Tex., one of the country's most finished riders, piloted his cycle up the steep grade on Wittmer's farm yesterday to capture first honors in the 45-cubic-inch expert and professional event, the feature of the Greater Pittsburgh Motorcycle Club's initial climb of the season. His time was 8.96 seconds.

Howard Mitzel, of York, Pa., was second, and Woodsie Castonguay, of Springfield, Mass., placed third.

In the 45-inch class A professional climb, Castonguay took first prze, with Bernard Thanner, of Baltimore, finishing second, and Mitzel third. Castonguay's time was 9.36 seconds.

Williard Wolfe, of Bethlehem, Pa., won the amateur race. Harry Seamans, of Syracuse, N. Y., was second, and Andy Baycura, a local rider, third.

NET TOURNEY HEADS NAMED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Twenty-four district racqueters of prominence comprise the committee in charge of the forty-fifth annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships, scheduled to get under way on the clay courts of the Stanton Heights Golf Club on Saturday, June 17. Announcement of the roster of the governing array was made today by Chairman Frank S. Smith, Edgewood leader, who simultaneously stated that tournament invitations will go out within a few days.

The list follows:

John D. Beatty, Stanton Heights; G. C. Burgwin, Jr., Pittsburgh Golf Club; Howard E. Campbell, College Hill; J. Phillips Davis, Stanton Heights; Joseph Dilworth, Allegheny Country Club; George D. Edwards, 1900 West Penn champion; Austin Famariss, College Avenue; George D. Henderson, Stanton Heights; E. Bruce Hill, Stanton Heights; J. Don Mattern, University Club; David F. McCahill, P. A. A.; Dr. William S. McElroy, P. A. A.; Don L. Moniot, Belmont; J. Howard Moore, College Avenue; Dr. David L. O'Loughlin, P. A. A.; Pennock Orr, Pittsburgh Golf Club; Thomas Orr, Pittsburgh Golf Club; W. McCook Reed, Edgewood; H. M. Rinehart, Stanton Heights; Robert C. Schmertz, Edgeworth; Edward D. Seitz, Trafford; Frank S. Smith, Edgewood; Paul G. Sullivan, P. A. A., and L. H. Tippins, Stanton Heights.

Interscholastic Conference title activity will hold large portion of the tennis stage here throughout the current week. This afternoon out Squirrel Hill way, Taylor Allderdice seeks to defend its City school crown and the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Cup symbolic thereof against onslaught of Carrick.

The survivor of today's match will join Shady Side Academy, Wilkinsburg, and Mount Lebanon, Suburban Section victors, in a four-cornered conference eliminations at Pitt on Wednesday and Thursday. The University of Pittsburg Trophy, placed up by Panther authorities a year ago and promptly annexed by Mount Lebanon, will be at stake in the Wednesday-Thursday milling.

Informal competition will occupy attention of local netmen Memorial Day.

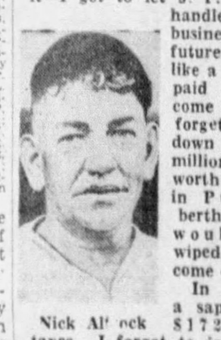
BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Well, folks, there is nothing to it—I got to let J. P. Morgan handle all my business in the future. In 1930, like a sucker, I paid $146 income taxes. I forget to put down I lost a million dollars' worth of sleep in Pullman berths, which would have wiped my income out clean.



Nick Altrock

In 1931, like a sap, I paid $172 income taxes. I forgot to jot down I lost a 75-cent jackknife which I valued at $100,000 for sentimental reasons, and that would have put me in the red.

In 1932, like a simpleton, I paid $193 income taxes. I forgot to deduct $5 apiece for additional gray hairs, $20 each for extra wrinkles and $10,000 more for general obsolescence.

So, hereafter I am going to let J. P. attend to my fiscal affairs, and I figure I will wind up the season with Uncle Sam owing me a handsome apology and a healthy rebate.

RUTH QUIETS CRITICS WITH THREE HOMERS

STAR SLUGGER LEADS YANKS TO DUAL WIN

Just about every time the fans start saying that Babe Ruth is through at last, baseball's great slugger and great showman steps out and shows them there's life in the old hoss yet.

The Babe has been a wide open target this season with his extra load of weight and years and with the old spring and speed visibly missing. And when the Yankees came back from their Western tour with Ruth's home run total just where it was when they left, at five, the rumors came thick and fast.

BABE HITS THREE

Ruth made his reply yesterday when more than 50,000 fans were out at the Yankee Stadium to see for themselves. He clouted three homers, hit a single that led to another important run and personally led the Yanks to a double victory over the Chicago White Sox that assured them of holding the American League lead for a while longer at least.

The scores were 2 to 1 and 9 to 7. Ruth's contribution was to sock a homer in the first inning of the opener, single in the sixth and score the winning run and then to paste the offerings of Milton Gaston and Red Faber for circuit blows eight and nine in the second clash. The total of nine tied him with Lou Gehrig for the American League lead.

The second place Senators pasted Rube Walberg for six hits and four runs in the eighth to beat Philadelphia, 7-4. Cleveland climbed out of the second division by pounding out an 11-2 victory over the Red Sox after Bob Weiland's six-hit pitching had enabled the tail enders to beat Oral Hildebran, 5-2, in the first game. After five hitless innings the St. Louis Browns landed on Elon Hogsett for four runs and defeated Detroit, 5-3.

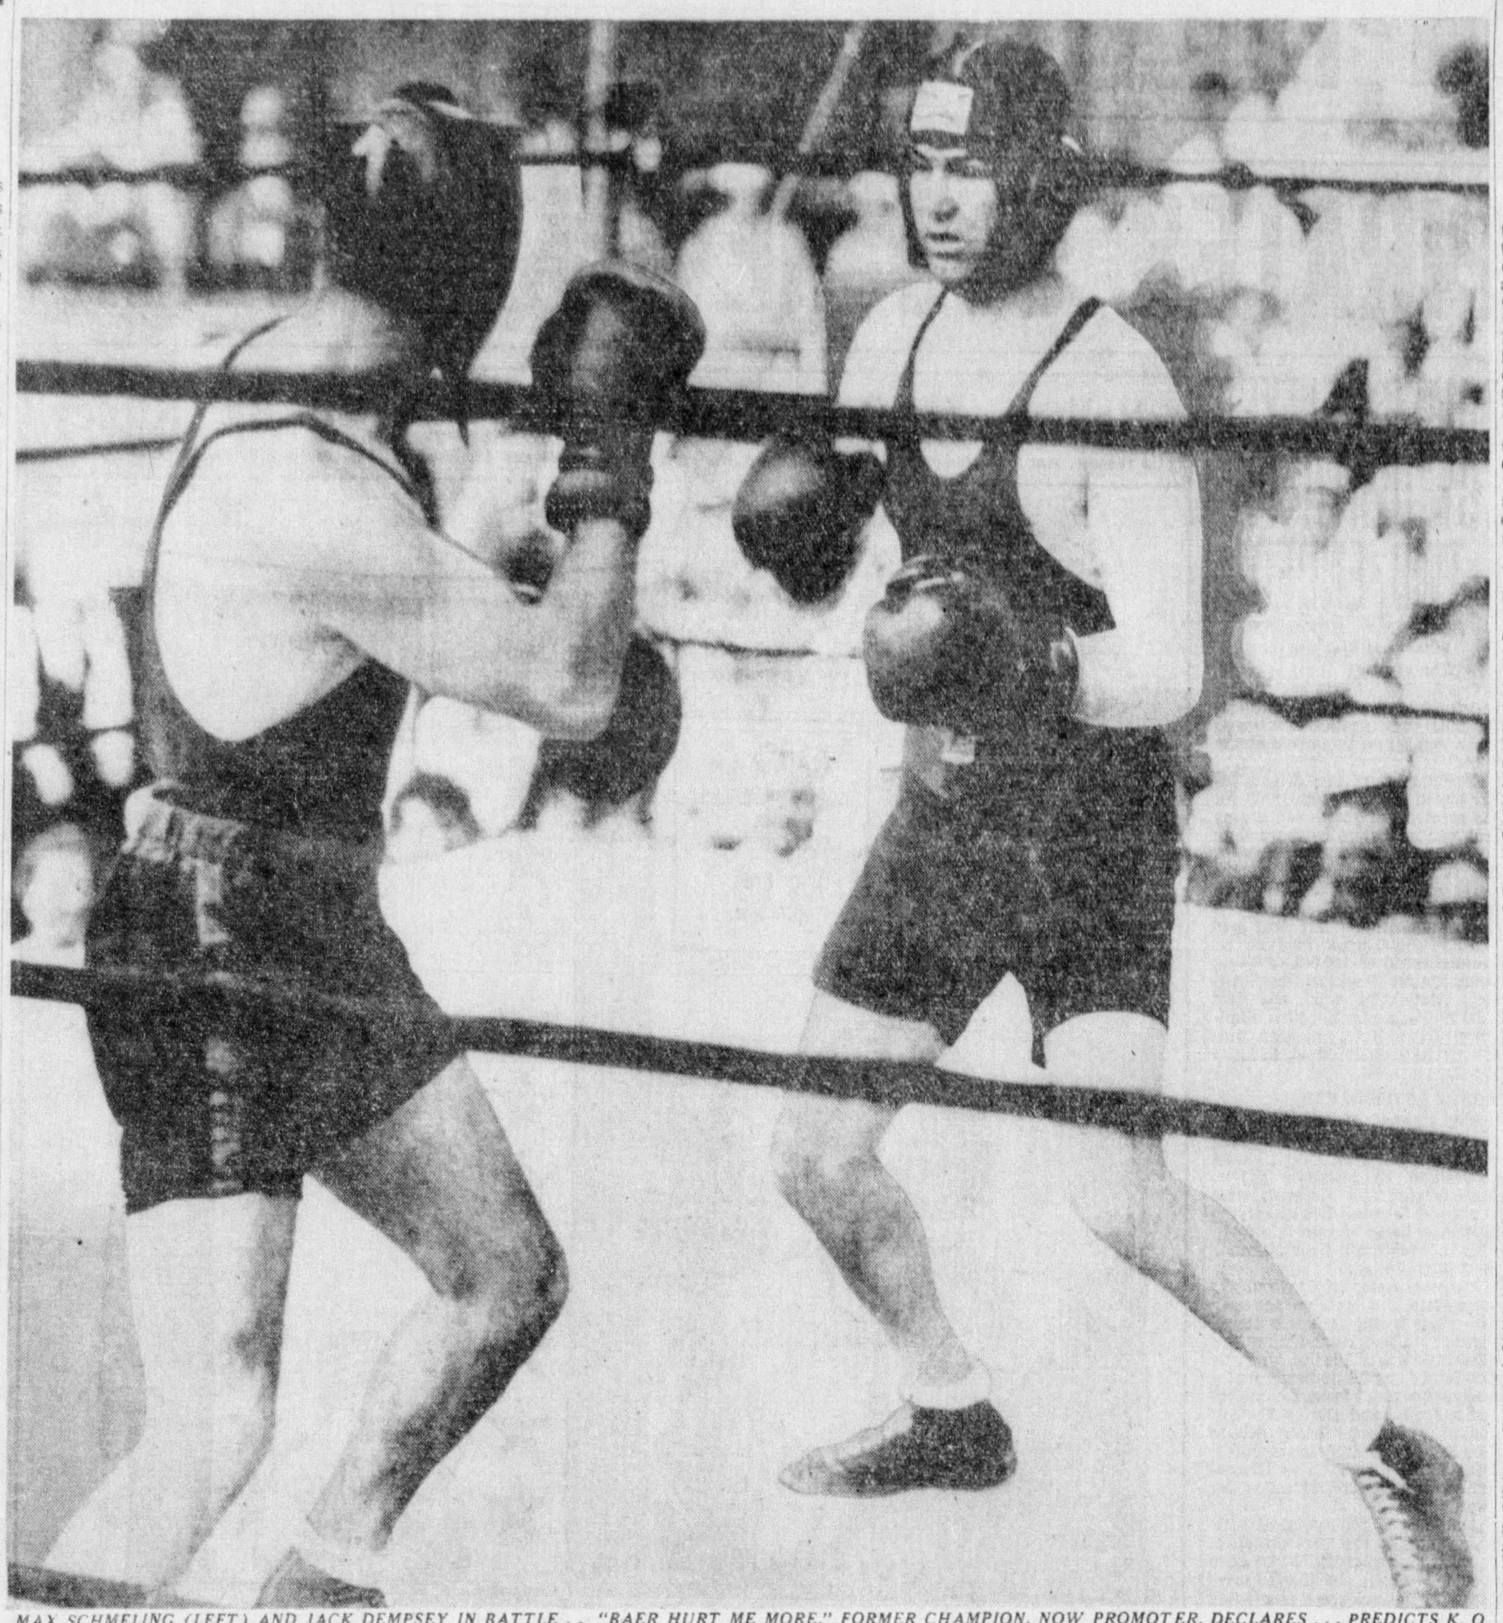
CARDS TAKE SECOND

The St. Louis Cardinals clambered into second place in the National League by sweeping a doubleheader with the Phillies, 8-7 and 5-3.

Brooklyn's Dodgers knocked their neighbors, the New York Giants, out of second place and gained sixth for themselves with a 5-4 victory.

The champion Chicago Cubs moved up another notch, beating the Boston Braves twice, 5-1 and 3-2, to run their winning streak to five straight games.

The Old Mauler Back in Action—Works Out With Schmeling and Baer



MAX SCHMELING (LEFT) AND JACK DEMPSEY IN BATTLE . . "BAER HURT ME MORE," FORMER CHAMPION, NOW PROMOTER, DECLARES . . . PREDICTS K. O.

Jack Dempsey, promoter of the Baer-Schmeling bout in New York Thursday of next week, worked a three-minute round with Schmeling on Saturday and a two-minute setto with Baer yesterday. He cut loose against both and at the end compared them as follows: "Both are good fighters. Baer hurt me most with a left hand body punch, but Schmeling is a better hitter with his right. The gamer guy will win, and I look for a knockout." Schmeling looks not unlike the Dempsey of old and has become famous as the "German Dempsey." GENEVA TRACK TEAM CHOICE FOR TITLE

By JESS CARVER

That ought to be a pretty fair track meet down at Beaver Falls tomorrow as the Tri-State Conference heroes come together in their annual championship affair. Geneva, of course, will win the team title, just as the Covenanters have since the Conference came into being, but there are a handful of individual stars from the other squads who may crash the limelight.

Geneva's chief opposition is figured to come from the combined Grove City and Waynesburg teams, the strongest in the district among the Class B schools. The only way in which the Covenanters could really be hard pressed would be to have either Pitt or West Virginia or both entered.

SPENCER AFTER MARKS

If there is any record breaking on tap, it probably will be dominated by Howard Spencer, Geneva's ace high jumper. Already Howard holds the meet and district record, 6 feet 4⅝ inches, and the former Fifth Avenue Negro star is capable of improving on even this fine mark. Beside his jumping, Spencer will go after new marks in both the high and low hurdles. He has cracked the Geneva marks for the events on the Reeves Stadium track already this year and in making his big effort tomorrow, stands a fine chance of coming through.

If there are any other marks set, they likely will come in the field events, Geneva has a fine all-round field star in Rupp, and Grove City will present Critchfield, Rosequist and Beres in opposition.

Getting back to Spencer and the hurdling, the Covenanter Negro may expect serious competition from Shelton, Waynesburg's fine timber topper, possibly as formidable an athlete as there will be in the meet. Shelton possesses a world of natural speed and fine hurdling form and is a good "money" runner, performing well under fire.

MEET NEEDS TEAMS

To make this meet really interesting, the Conference should make it an open affair and invite Pitt and West Virginia, Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff and even West Virginia Wesleyan to compete. The Genevians, Panthers and Mountaineers could put on a swell duel for team honors.

The Conference records follow:

Field for English Derby Cut to 24

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 29.—(AP.)—J. A. Dewar's colt Lochiel today was scratched from the Derby, leaving 24 probable starts in the one hundred fiftieth running of the 3-year-old classic May 31. The French challenger, Rodosto, was scratched yesterday and shipped home today.

Lochiel showed lameness after a training gallop Saturday, and it was decided he would not be sound enough to run Wednesday.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 29.—(INS.)—Harry Gentry, 24, Burbank, Cal., automobile race driver, died last night from injuries suffered when his car overturned during a race at Silvergate Speedway yesterday.

Regatta Race To Be Re-Rowed

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—(AP.)—Protests that crews got into wrong lanes, causing a collision, have resulted in a decision to "rerow" next Saturday one of the races of the American Henley regatta on the Schuylkill River.

The race is the four-oared shell event without coxswain in which three crews competed Saturday. Penn Athletic Club's crew was victorious under the final ruling at the finish, but the other crews, Pennsylvania Barge and Undine Barge, protested. Pennsylvania Barge Club contended its shell was damaged in the collision.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Bader Field, Atlantic City, where Jack Dempsey prepared for his bout against Georges Carpentier, now is the training site of Max Baer, fighting Max Schmeling under the auspices of Dempsey next week . . . Pittsburgh's oldest free sports entertainment, the harness racing matinees at Schenley Oval, will be resumed tomorrow afternoon with a special holiday band concert . . . Sam Gibbs writes from London, where he is with his boxer, Bobby Leitham, the Canadian bantamweight champion, for the latter's 15-round battle with Johnny King for the British Empire championship, on June 12 . . . Bobby visited his birthplace in Scotland shortly after his arrival.

Bad news for the boxing fraternity is the word from Harisburg that license fees have been raised all along the line. . . . Boxers' licenses have been boosted from $5 to $10, managers' fees from $25 to $40 and those of seconds from $5 to $10. . . . Promoters, matchmakers, announcers, physicians, referees and judges also will pay more. . . . The $25 fee for managers has led to a lot of subterfuge in the past, handlers of boxers easing by on seconds' licenses and allowing the boxers to sign their own contracts because they could not afford the fee out of the meagre money they have been making. . . The raise complicates matters.

A letter from Jack Puggy, of Philadelphia, manager of Lew Massey, in which he says Lew will be ready to go through with his match with Tony Herrera here as soon as his bad eye heals. . . . Incidentally, he takes offense at the lightweight ratings of Ray Alvis, Herrera's manager, who places Herrera, Wesley Ramey, Tony Canzoneri, the champion; Steve Halaiko and Young Peter Jackson ahead of all the others. . . . "I do not say Massey is the greatest lightweight," writes Puggy, "but neither is he the worst."

A missive from Blystone, the rice writer of Ardara, Pa., who is one of the queeriosities in Ripley's exhibit at the Chicago World Fair. . . . LOS ANGELES, May 29.—(INS.)—Young Corbett, III, world welterweight champion, and his challenger, Jimmy McLarnin, rested today awaiting the bell for their 10-round title match at Wrigley Field tonight with Corbett a 2-1 favorite around San Francisco and at 10 to 8 here.

They will weight in at 3 o'clock Coast time this afternoon.

The challenger expects to weigh 145 pounds and the champion the class limit of 147. George Blake will be the referee.

Color will be lent the event by the presence at ringside of nine former world champions—Tommy Ryan, Young Jack Thompson, Jackie Fields, Dixie Kid, welterweights; Mickey Walker, welterweight and middleweight; Jim Jeffries and Jess Willard, heavyweights; Billy Papke, middleweight and Solly Smith, featherweight.

Ticket offices indicated that the fondest hopes of promoters for a crowd of 40,000 fans and a gate in excess of $100,000 would come true. All of the higher-priced seats—the top was $5.50—were sold several days ago. Perfect weather was forecast.

Corbett's guarantee is $35,000, while McLarnin will receive 22½ per cent of the gate.

Eleventh-hour statements from the fighters were:

Corbett:

"I'll decide how to fight McLarnin after the bout starts. I'll use my head as well as my fists. I expect to win, and consider McLarnin a very much overrated fighter."

McLarnin:

"I've been in the ring before and I'm not overconfident. I have no plan of battle and will meet the situations as they come up. I am not worried about Corbett's southpaw stance, and expect to be the welterweight champion tonight."

GOLFERS SET HOLIDAY CARD

By TOM BIRKS

Tomorrow, Memorial Day, brings the official opening day for local golf clubs, and all of the clubs in the district are holding special tournaments.

Ted Luther, popular professional at Valley Heights, is planning a kickers' and medal play tourney for the early morning players. The afternoon finds a mixed foursome event carded.

Highland's celebration is to be confined to play for the same sex. Vincent Eldred will start a big crowd from the initial tee in the morning event, a medal play affair, and the afternoon finds match play against par competition on the card.

The qualifying round for the tri-state district for the national amateur golf championship will be held at the Oakmont Country Club Tuesday, August 8, the United States Golf Association announced today. The championship will be held over the links of the Kenwood Country Club, Cincinnati, September 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16.

F. A. Vance, with a net 66, won the 18-hole medal play tournament contested under full handicap at the Churchill Valley Club yesterday. The scores:

F. A. Vance, 72-6—66; E. A. Weber, 80-12—68; T. A. Houston, 95-26—69; I. C. Ball, 80-8—72; Jack Pettis, 77-4—73; H. A. Klein, 83-8—75; J. E. Windish, 99-24—75.

Pete O'Hara, professional at the Westmoreland Country Club, will hold his fifth golf clinic of the season at the Guyasuta Golf Club this evening at 8 o'clock. He will specialize in long iron shots, and give a short talk relative to the grip.

CASANOVA WINS

EL PASO, Tex., May 29.—(AP.)—Rudolfo (Baby) Casanova, latest bantamweight sensation to come out of Mexico City, defeated a technical knockout over Carlos Laredo, Juarez flyweight, in Juarez yesterday. Laredo's seconds refused to allow him to answer the bell for the fifth round on the ground Laredo never knocked out in nearly five years of ring campaigning, had suffered a broken bone in his right hand.

UPPERMOST

The one thought uppermost with every seasoned traveller is: "How are the folks back home?" In business conferences . . . on the road . . . in the hotel he has them in mind.

But he has no fears. Should the need arise he knows that by telephone he is within instant reach. And when the day is over he knows they are waiting for the telephone ring that brings the traveller home.

Keep in touch with the family when you are away from home. It is surprisingly inexpensive by telephone. Low Night Rates are effective on Station to Station calls after 8:30 P. M. Standard Time.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER EARLY HESITANCY

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP.)—The bull market in stocks rolled forward again today, after some hesitancy during the first hour.

Trading failed to touch the feverish pace of Saturday, but week-end business news, indicating further gains in steel production, provided considerable bullish ammunition. In commodities, wheat fluctuated uncertainly. Sugar, rubber, silver and copper were firm, however, while cotton rose about 50 cents a bale. Continental gold currencies stiffened a little against dollars.

Speculative quarters still made the most of inflationary prospects, and traders were still anxious to buy stocks on the theory that the government would actively pursue its policy of endeavoring to restore commodity prices throughout the summer. Copper metal advanced ¼ of a cent again, getting up to 7½ cents a pound, which is not far from the level at which it is estimated lower cost domestic producers can operate in black figures again.

Oils were strong from the start, as bulls turned to this group in the hope that government control or at least the threat of it would soon bring order into the industry again, and in consequence better prices. There was nothing in the day's news to account for the flurry in the motion picture and aviation stocks, and brokers said bulls evidently turned to them on the theory that they had been lagging in the advance of recent sessions.

The monthly review of the Guaranty Trust Company said that inflation had played no part in the business recovery as yet, save possibly by anticipation, and found it, therefore, not unreasonable to regard "the current expansion as the continuation or the resumption of an upward movement that really began almost a year ago." This analysis indicated a better rooted recovery than some quarters have supposed. Freight movement appeared to be holding well. Santa Fe reported cars handled last week totaled 21,359, against 21,664 in the previous week, and 21,970 in the like week of last year.

FEWER R. F. C. LOANS ASKED

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(INS.)—Applications for loans from banks, trust companies and other financing institutions in April were the lowest since the first month of the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in February, 1932, it was revealed today.

April applications numbered 420, less than half the number for March and comparing with the high of 1,527 in April, 1932. Applications for loans by banks and trust companies numbered 234 in April, compared with 702 in March.

Indications pointed to a substantial improvement in the general banking situation.

Total advances of the corporation to the close of business May 22 amounted to $2,448,710,246, while repayments amounted to $511,844,713.

Banks and trust companies were advanced $1,143,955,769 and repaid $394,797,746; railroads received $357,884,757 and repaid $20,523,340; mortgage loan companies received $129,773,009 and repaid $19,477,671 and building and loan associations received $107,138,303 and repaid $22,417,322.

GRAIN VALUES TURN DOWN

CHICAGO, May 29.—Downturns in grain values formed the rule early today.

Sellers predominated, influenced by assertions in various quarters that inflation had been discounted as a market factor for at least the time being. Opening ⅛-1⅛ lower, wheat afterward underwent an additional sag. Corn started ½-1¼ down, and subsequently held near the initial range.

Although enlarged buying on the part of leading houses developed after wheat price setbacks, there was a notable lack of the broad speculative demand which recently had rushed values skyward.

At one stage, wheat rallies carried the market temporarily to above Saturday's finish. Corn and oats today followed wheat. Provisions weakened with hog values.

INDEPENDENCE OF FEDERAL RESERVE HIT

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Indications a week ago that the inflationary factor was losing its momentum led to a resumption of tangible activities in the direction of further cheapening the dollar.

Mr. Rukeyser

Accordingly, the speculative markets were further electrified. The announcement of additional open market purchases by the Federal Reserve system of government obligations was the first step in the second chapter of the current inflationary developments. This effort to make credit cheap and abundant was followed by action by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in reducing its rediscount rate from 3 to 2½ per cent.

The open market operations under the Thomas amendment tend to end the independence of the Federal Reserve system, and to make it a back office of the Treasury. Perhaps it is felt that in a planned economy such rigorous co-ordination is necessary, yet the Federal Reserve officials should recognize the need of freedom of action when changed conditions may make the reversal of easing operations necessary.

The ultimate test of a managed currency is whether the officials in charge will have the courage to apply the brakes when doing so seems necessary and prudent. In the past, there has been too much fear of rocking the boat when the country has been riding high on an inflationary wave.

The announcement on Friday that the gold clause was to be formally outlawed tended to drive the financial public into a further frenzy, and to renew the impulse to switch from dollars to equities and commodities. This move was interpreted to mean that there will be no quick return to the orthodox gold standard.

The proposed resolution is in line with a ruling by the Supreme Court in New York. It would obviate the contradiction entailed in retaining the gold clause in new Treasury obligations despite the fact that prevailing regulations make the carrying out of the promise impracticable.

The resolution is intended to put the world on notice concerning prevailing monetary conditions in the United States, but on the side of constitutionality the point has been raised that it is in the nature of ex post facto legislation.

AUDACIOUS GIRL REVEALS SECRETS OF SOUTHERN SEAS

CHAPTER XII.

Wherever white influence has penetrated in New Guinea, the universal language between white man and Chinese and natives is pidgin English. None of it is the allee-samee, belly-cold variety of our own Chinese laundries. New Guinea pidgin is made up of English, Chinese, German, French, Portuguese, Malay and native lingo. Its construction defies all rules of every respectable grammar. Also, it is perfectly graphic.

After the first delicate hesitancy, I found myself using freely such phrases as the following to the native, or receiving them, without batting an eye: " 'Im 'e all bugger up pinish!" which means that something has met with disaster. Just as eye-belong-'im indicates the lid of anything or the cork of a bottle.

But the keyword of pidgin, and of New Guinea, is "maskee." Of all words it is the first learned and oftenest used. Literally, it means "Never mind," and is equivalent to a shrug of the shoulders. After maskee, the next words and phrases one learns have to do with personal comfort. Kaikai is important; it means food and to eat. Suzu is milk; keo is egg; bullomacow is meat; pudding stands for anything that serves for dessert, no matter what its form; liklik is a little, and liklik-too-much means very little. By the same token, plenty-too-much indicates a lot. Fowl of any description is cockeroo. A native speaks of his hair as grass-belong-me; and I was enlightened to learn from my boy that a feather duster was "broom-belong-grass-belong-cockeroo." The classic of pidgin English is the phrase indicating a piano, i. e., big-fella-bokis-you-fight-'em-'ecry. To gammon means to fool, or to lie, therefore the native mind has dubbed the wooden Treasury Building in Rabaul housemoney-gammon, it being the house-money (bank) where no actual money is kept, as opposed to the house-money-true, or real bank. First-time means before or ahead, while behind means later.

THE COMMANDMENTS

If, for instance, supposing you were domestically inclined, you wished to order a boy to beat an egg first, and would admonish him thus: "Now, first-time you fight 'im keo, behind you ketch 'im wash-wash belong drink!"

With the advent of Christianity into New Guinea, the necessarily graphic portrayal of the Testaments, particularly the Old, lends a refreshingly new interpretation to the Word. I have a native boy's version of Genesis. He called it the story of Adam now Eva. Gabriel is described as tultul (policeboy)-belong-Deus. "Now Gabriel 'e no man true. Head belong 'im, now hand belong 'im, all same cockeroo." Thus does a kanaka vision the Archangel.

A German missioner spent many a long day transcribing part of the Old Testament into pidgin. Below is the phonetic pidgin version of the Ten Commandments, which the New Guinea native finds so bewildering:

1. I am the Lord thy God; thou shalt have no other Gods before me.
   You lotu (worship) 'long one fella Deo dass all.
2. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.
   You no call 'im name belong Deo, mastah belong you, nothing.
3. Remember the Sabbath Day, to keep it holy.
   You tamboo 'long work Sunday.
4. Honor thy Father and thy Mother.
   You hamamas (honor) long papa now mama belong you.
5. Thou shalt not kill.
   You no make 'im die one fella man, now mary, now pickaninney.
6. Thou shalt not commit adultry.
   You no hold 'im fast mary belong other fella man.
7. Thou shalt not steal.
   You no steal.
8. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.
   You no gammon (lie).
9. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife.
   You no laik 'im mary belong other fella man.
10. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's goods.
    You no laik 'im altogether something belong other fella man.

ADOPTED BY GERMANS

Pidgin English is easily mastered. Oddly, it is only in English that pidgin seems to work satisfactorily. At first the German settlers tried pidgin German, but abandoned it to adopt pidgin English. For them this adoption had an additional virtue; the natives would not get a glimmering of German by way of pidgin German, and so the Germans could discourse among themselves in their own tongue without their servants' understanding them.

* * *

In New Guinea they say there are but two seasons—the wet and the rainy. But that's unfair. Throughout June, which was the month of my arrival, the trades usually blow fair and soft, and the seas are as calm and as blue as the sky. The southeast monsoon extends theoretically from April to the middle of November. The northeast monsoon season brings rain for days at a time, and can make the sea a grim, gray expanse of mountains.

While I liked living in Rabaul, and was getting a splendid foundation for further wanderings among the atolls, I knew that pretty soon I should have to start out again before the northwest trades began. Somewhere I wanted to find a schooner that was prowling through Melanesia, and would take a passenger. I know little of schooners; but I had been seeing them come in and go out of Rabaul harbor. Living on one, it seemed to me, would be an idyllic existence. I met with discouragement. People said that no schooner was fit for a woman to travel on for any length of time; besides which, schooners didn't wander. They had definite charters from island to island and back to Rabaul.

DECIDES ON SCHOONER

I looked over the possibilities. A little island steamer was going to the Solomons; I had had an invitation to make as long a visit as I cared in the Solomons. But New Ireland caught my interest. A little 30-ton schooner was bound for Kaewieng, the concentrating station of New Ireland. I didn't know a soul there, but some one gave me a letter of introduction (something I never use), and I had unfaltering faith in good luck. I didn't realize that getting out of New Ireland without returning to Rabaul would be difficult. So I decided to leave on the schooner Bonta. With the several plantation stops along the New Britain and New Ireland coasts the trip to Kaewieng would take three days.

Rabaul had never looked so lovely as on the day I left her for the other islands. Solid-wheeled carts, drawn by oxen, and with flower-decked kanakas drowsing over the wheels, trundled slowly along the short road. A nun passed me, from the Catholic mission; her eyes were as blue as the sea, and in her Alice-blue robe with its starched white bertha and hood she looked too holy for the Chinatown road.

At her heels tagged a dozen Chinese children. Magnificent casuarinas flecked the avenue with flickering shadows, and along it walked people with whom I had spent many a pleasant hour. Arm in arm, Nicki and I strolled, for the last time in our lives, up to the Gardens, genuinely upset at parting. The Gardens were lovely, but not as beautiful as by moonlight.

A NEW ADVENTURE

I should have felt much worse at leaving if another adventure had not spread before me. I knew what I wanted to do, and I knew that there were very many obstacles in my path, but there would be a thrill in getting over the obstacles. I wanted to get up the Sepik River, in New Guinea, somehow. They said it was impossible. Trading schooners didn't go up the Sepik, nor did the island steamer touch upon it. Only two white women had been there; one of them had since died. The Sepik natives are head-hunters, and only the fringe of the country is under government control. But I desired desperately to go there, and to meet the great Father Kirschbaum.

Nevertheless, I felt badly at parting with Nicki. And so did he. On the tiny afterdeck of the Bonta I waved good-by to him as the schooner joggled off. Waved until he could no longer see the fluttering handkerchief. And poignantly I thought of all the good times we had had together. I hoped, wistfully, that he would remember—always.

Household Hints

A simple dessert for a children's party is apple float with whipped cream. For a half dozen guests the white of one egg stiffly beaten and stirred into the apple sauce lifts this dessert from one of dullness to something delicate and tempting. The dash of whipped cream on the top further improves it.

A good way to prevent children from using one another's handkerchiefs and to avoid confusion in sorting them is to provide each child with handkerchiefs with borders or designs of a distinctive color—pink, blue, green or yellow.

THE MANUFACTURE OF DRY COLORS

Paint is a mixture of opaque or semi-opaque substances (pigments) with liquid (the vehicle), having the property of forming an adherent coat after drying (oxidating) on a surface to which it has been applied. There are white and colored pigments used for white or colored paints. The raw materials (metallic oxides, salt, etc.) of the colors are dissolved in the tubs shown above, the insoluble colors will precipitate; the liquid is siphoned off, the color washed with water and transferred to the color press (right). Here the water is pressed from the solids and the material molded into cakes to be dried and ground into powder, commercially known as dry colors. (Chemistry).

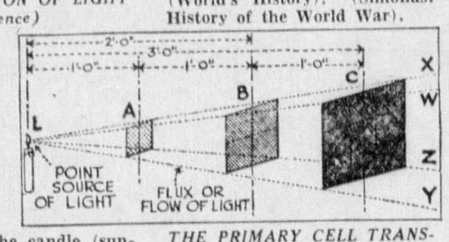
THE RADIATION OF LIGHT (Science)

Density of illumination varies inversely as the square of the distance from a point source (inverse-square law). The distance of surface A (1 foot square) from the candle (supposedly the point source) is 1 foot; that of surface B (2 feet in square) is 2 feet, and that of surface C (3 feet in square) is 3 feet. B and C receive the same amount of light — radiation as A, but they have four times respectively nine times the area of A, hence the density of illumination (the radiation per square foot) will be 1/4 respectively 1/9 of that on A. (Croft: Electric Illumination).



THE PRIMARY CELL TRANSFORMS CHEMICAL ENERGY INTO ELECTRICAL

Two different conductors (electrodes) placed in acid, salt or base solution (electrolyte) will bring about a chemical reaction between electrodes and electrolyte. The energy set free by the chemical reaction will manifest itself as electromotive force at the electrodes, which causes an electric current to flow from the positive electrode to the negative when the circuit is closed by a conductor. Volta's cell, consisting of copper and zinc electrodes, placed in sulphuric acid solution in a non-conductive container, is shown. The copper will be the positive and the zinc the negative electrode. The sulphate radical combines with the zinc atom, forming zinc sulphate, and the hydrogen is set free at the copper electrod If the electrodes are connected with an ammeter by outside wires, the current will flow from the copper to the zinc and its intensity can be read in amperes. (Smith: Industrial Electricity). (Science).

CZAR NICHOLAS II

Nicholas was the autocratic but weak ruler of Russia, much under the influence of the "wonder-working monk," Rasputin (see Pictorial Education of May 17). The Russian army was unsuccessful in the World War, the suppressed people revolted and the Czar became a prisoner. Communism rose to power and Nicholas was assassinated, together with his family. George, the present ruler of the British Empire, was on the English throne during the World War. He occupies a secure position in the hearts of his countrymen. (World's History). (Simonds: History of the World War).

POINCARE, THE WAR-PRESIDENT OF FRANCE

Raimond Poincare as France's prime minister and later as president, had a great part in making France's position strong by a great army and treaties with Russia and England. (Simonds: History of the World War).

TYPICAL SENSORY (AFFERENT) AND MOTOR (EFFERENT) NEURONS

Order, efficiency and timing of all parts of the human mechanism are secured by the nervous tissue, composed of nerve-cells called neurons. The neurons, which receive and convey impulses aroused by stimulus to some center, are the sensory or afferent neurons (right). Those transmitting the response to some part of the body are the motor (efferent) neurons (left). Each has a central cell body with a large nucleus and groups of granules (Nissl bodies). The granules are numerous in the rested cells, but reduced in number and disorganized in the exhausted neurons. From the cell body short, tree-like branching fibers (dendrites) and one long soft thread (axon) radiate. They are the receiving and transmitting connectors of the central cell body. The axon is covered with segmented "medullary sheath" (its joints are called nodes of Ranvier) and often with a second sheathing, the "neurilemma," which furnish nourishment to the axon. (Caldwell, Skinner, Tietz: Biological Foundation of Education).

Second race: Twitchy Ears, Coated Tongue, Postponed, Flying Mausoleum, Long Sickness, Porch Rockers, Sunken Treasure.

Third race: Window Jumper, Anonymous Threats, Manchurian Hospitality, Serpent's Tooth, Wrong Steer.

Fourth race: Just Missed, Try Again, Shell Game, Bigamist's Bride, Pickled Herring, Dog Trot, Money Burner.

Fifth race: Morning Glory, China Eyes, Frozen Investment, King Toadstool, Neighborhood Rumor, Late Sleeper.

Sixth race: Glorious Ribs, Canceled Check, No Hurry, Lottsa Time, Gumbo Legs, False Friend, Corner Lounger.

There's the prohibited schedule. When you are betting on those chameleons you are throwing your pennies on a busted drum.

Giving this free advice is tough on us letter carriers who have to pack the mail through the mountains in all those blizzards. But summer is here and we want to tout off the lads who plank their distress money on the line.

This will be the last roll of honor we will print this summer. Our only real advice is to never bet on a hoss that will stop for a milk bottle or a jockey who picks up hitch-hikers.

Meddling About

The Administration Disappoints by Its Changed Attitude Towards the Navy.

While the administration meddles about at Geneva in the morass of internationalism and the mire of European politics, it continues to cripple the various arms of the national defense at home in the name of "economy."

An administration about-face having saved the high seas battle fleet from being shelved one-third at a time, in "rotating reserve," it is now proposed to "save" money in the Navy by transferring many officers, including especially medical, engineering and technically trained men, to administrative or technical positions in the public works, relief or reforestation agencies.

This move can only operate to hamstring the fleet's efficiency and to impair the morale of the personnel.

And what earthly use is there to discharge men from the Navy and project them into the ranks of the unemployed, or put them on other kinds of government work? It's like a dog chasing its tail—there is a lot of energy expended and nobody gets anywhere.

It was at least hoped by the supporters of Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign that, having been an Assistant Secretary of the Navy, he would have interest in building up the Navy, and many patriotic citizens supported him on that account who were disgusted with Republican neglect of the Navy.

That hope found further encouragement when Mr. Roosevelt declared that he was going to build our Navy up to treaty strength.

Now we see the administration more disposed to meddle in Europe than to mind its own business at home.

Raise in Miners' Wages

The Pittsburgh Coal Company's Increase Is One of the Most Hopeful Signs Yet.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company's announcement of a 10 per cent increase in wages is one of the most impressive indications of an improvement in industrial conditions.

Mining of soft coal is a basic industry in which many thousands of men are normally employed in the Pittsburgh district. With five of its 17 mines in Western Pennsylvania shut down, 8,000 men will benefit by the Pittsburgh Coal Company's increase. This company is the largest of the operators.

The bituminous coal industry, because of conditions peculiar to itself, felt the depression long before other industries. The Pittsburgh Coal Company began to reduce wages in 1927, when other industries were still booming, and the present upward revision is the first check in the downward trend.

The company, it is generally felt, would not raise wages at this time unless impelled by economic necessity or strongly confident that the improvement in business is to continue.

President J. D. A. Morrow indicates that it was the latter. The industrial demand for coal during the last few weeks has resulted, he says, in an increase in the company's daily production from 22,000 to 30,000 tons, and there is reason to believe that the demand will continue to rise.

'White Collar' Surplus

The Medical Profession Gives Some Information on an Interesting Subject.

Enrollment in the high schools and colleges has increased in recent years far more rapidly than the increase in population. With superior education young men and women have been unwilling to enter the manual trades, but have sought places in the learned professions and among the "white collar" workers.

The question has often been asked of late by thoughtful persons what the effect of this increasing demand for "white collar" jobs would be. Can these young men and women of superior education be absorbed by the professions and industries?

Dr. Robert L. Anderson, chairman of the Allegheny County Medical Society's committee on public health legislation, throws some interesting light on the subject. In a report on the fate of various bills relating to the medical profession which were introduced at the recent session of the Legislature he states that representatives of the unorthodox medical cults which seek official recognition from the commonwealth are now distinctly more intelligent than formerly, and often possess considerable educational background.

The explanation given is that "more students are enrolled in pre-medical courses in our colleges than can possibly be accommodated in medical schools. The result is that these disappointed pre-medical students are diverted into forms of cult practice."

In the surplus of prospective "white collar" and professional men we have an employment problem that is independent of that raised by the industrial slump and will have to be solved separately.

300,000 Killed in War

325,000 in Auto Accidents.

This country has fought six big wars—the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and the World War.

Americans killed in action or as the result of wounds in these wars numbered about 300,000.

The total duration of conflict in the six was about 15 years.

In the last 15 years Americans killed in automobile accidents or as a result of injuries therein numbered 325,000.

It is hard for us to realize that the carelessly driven car is more deadly than bullets or shells.

Yet there are the figures.

Think them over the next time you are tempted to break the speed laws or drive through a red light.

Your Personality

There is nothing that a woman enjoys more than wishing. There's nothing that she'd rather do than dream about all the wonderful things she'd do, if the high gods had blessed her with talent or beauty or a lot of money.

* * *

That is why the recent wishing-contest, conducted by Mary Dougherty (N. Y. Journal) brought such a snow-storm of letters. What is the most valuable quality a woman may possess—beauty, wit, personality, style, sex-appeal, home-making ability, power to mold public opinion or a warm heart? runs the question.

* * *

"Personality" won by a landslide, showing what a lot of sense girls have acquired in the last few years. Less than a decade ago, the landslide might have been in favor of sex-appeal. And 25 years ago, all the honest girls would have voted for beauty, while the white sepulchres would have chosen home-making ability.

But, in these enlightened times, every girl knows that, in order to hold her place in the sun—and even in masculine favor—she must possess something stronger than sex-appeal and more lasting than beauty. Of course, every woman secretly believes that she has a warm heart already. Power to mold public opinion interests only a rare few of our bright geniuses; and style and the domestic arts may be acquired.

* * *

That narrows the choice of heaven-sent gifts down to four. Beauty, wit, personality and sex-appeal—and the most desired of these is personality!

* * *

Why not? Personality gives you such a LOT for your money. It always includes some of the other gifts and may include all of them—and it outlasts everything else you may possess on earth and dies only when you die.

It is more important than genius, more arresting than wit, more fascinating than beauty and more holding than sex-appeal.

* * *

All of us have seen actors and actresses, whose personalities got across the footlights and dominated the play, long years after their youth had fled. Mrs. Fiske, Marie Dressler and the divine Sarah Bernhardt!

* * *

All of us have heard singers with second-rate voices and seen screen stars with no beauty, who "stole the play" or the opera from far more talented singers and from pulchritudinous young movie actresses. Personality!

* * *

Personality is that vital spark within, which electrifies the whole being and reaches out and radiates to every other human being. It is the lighted lamp inside, which shines through and illuminates you. It may be bad or good, fascinating or repellant—but it can never be IGNORED or forgotten!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 29.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and a post card from Ted Woodyard postmarked Odd, W. Va. Also merry cheerios from Ted Cook, Dr. Carleton McCulloch and the indefatigable fiction twins, Florence Ryerson and Colins Clement. Came, too, an autographed volume of C. G. Norris' latest book.

So out and came upon Ely Culbertson, the bridge expert, who is setting off for London and on to the Steve Brodys. And Gene Tunney, whom I have not seen in months, there, having grown a bit heavier. Also pretty Nancy Carroll dropped in and chirky Harry Evans, too.

To Fanny Hurst's farewell dinner at the Colony to Ruth Bryan Owen against her journey to Denmark and carried to her, "Arctic Village." But sorrowed I could not, too, take off for such Danish delights as reading runes, singing sagas and quaffing the foamy mead. And, of course, there's Elsinore!

This is how it happened. I placed a $10 bill in my hand to pay for movie tickets. Someone in the car on the way handed me a stick of chewing gum and, removing the paper, tucked it in the hand with the bill. Then at an opportune moment tossed the wad including the bill out the window to the street. A few blocks later I discovered the loss, screamed, swooned, circled back slowly for a futile search. And unless you have thrown a $10 bill away you'll never know the anguish.

And trying to think straight after such calamity someone incloses an essay by Allen Rivken on things he forgets. He never knows—and who does?—whether to give valet the "e" or the "ey." And the Medills, the Rockefellers, the McCormacks and the Huttons? Oh, yes, and Henry Hobart and Hobart Henley, of the movies! And Harry Reichenbach and Eddie Rickenbacker?

Because they are all writers, Frank R. Adams and Franklin P. Adams and Louis Sobol and Bernard Sobel are frequently confused. But the abagabba those of us who write about the passing show can never teach the proofreaders is to spell these names: Katharine Cornell, Elisabeth Marbury, Russel Crouse.

OUR HEROIC DEAD

Meditations on Memorial Day, 1933

By EDWIN MARKHAM

Author of "The Man With the Hoe." "Lincoln." "The Man of the People," Etc.

The lilacs are in bloom—
So let there be no gloom!
Let there be no dark sorrow for the dead . .
The lilacs are in bloom;
So, comrades, march with high-erected head;
Let there be valiant rhythms in your tread.
Yes, let there be no thought of any doom. . .
The lilacs are in bloom,
Filling the air with all their ancient peace,
Yes, let old sorrows cease;
This is no time for tears
Although the great day of remembrance nears.
Let there be no wild sorrows, no wild cries,
No lift of hands to cold unanswering skies.

Yet sorrow may be mixed with noble pride
For the great cause for which they fought and died,
Believing they were following the gleam,
Believing they were dying for the dream.
Faith in the cause was fire in every breath,
And laid upon them dignity in death.

We will not spend our unavailing tears,
Nor follow them with fears;
For well we know that now their pathways run
Glad with green fields and golden with the sun,
And they find happy welcomes over there,
Where heroes meet again to do and dare—

Now as the graves draw near, we hear a cry,
The call of the heroes from the upper sky;
"O sons of time, remember that we died
For a dream that should have left life glorified,
Remember, if you would not feel our scorn,
We died that a better world might be reborn—
We died that men in brotherhood might be
One music like the music of one sea."

The Human Side of the News

A Tiger Loose in a Sheepfold—The World's Classic Example of the Results of Pacifism—Must War Come to California?—Balaam and the Ass, of Holy Writ.

By EDWIN C. HILL

JAPAN storms through the Great Wall and drives on to the capture of Peiping and the conquest of North China. Her disciplined legions, fired by national pride and projected by inexorable purpose, are completing the greatest military adventure of modern times. A tiger loose in a sheepfold. For that is what pacifistic China is today, the sheepfold of the world, the most arresting and utterly convincing example of what pacifism can do to humiliate, degrade and shatter a once-great nation.

Peace, world peace, is the grandest of human conceptions, but it is difficult to see how that conception has been practically advanced by all of the Genevas and the Washington conferences and the Locarnos that have dreamed their dreams and flooded the world with lovely language ever since the guns ceased thundering on the Western Front. For we are living, as it happens, in a world of hard realities and not in a world of pink-tinged dreams. We are living in a dislocated, changing world, where whole races, as well as individual nations, are seeking a readjustment demanded by implacable necessity.

* * *

JAPAN needs new territory in Asia to accommodate her crowded millions. She is taking it, ruthlessly and relentlessly, scornful of the impotent League of Nations and of all protests and pressure from the great capitals of the West. The nation that tries to halt her march of conquest is the nation that will have to fight her.

We certainly do not want to see the Stars and Stripes in battle array against the red sun flag of Nippon, but the person who dreamily assumes that there is no existing menace of war between the United States and Japan ignores the explosive character of incidents that might occur any moment between the victory-excited Japanese and our own American infantry and Marines now in Peiping and adjacent territory. For more than 30 years burning resentment against the United States and our racial exclusion policy has seethed under the smooth overlay of Japanese politeness and diplomatic expressions. Resentment against our blunt distaste for the Yellow Race. Resentment against the incessant scoldings from Washington in the previous administration.

That smooth overlay has pretty well been discarded of late. Anti-American parades in the streets of Japanese cities and violent denunciations of the American attitude toward Japan's invasion of China have taken its place. In plain English, a situation has been created which might, at a spark, a single blow, bring on the war which no one wants.

* * *

OUR danger lies in the powerful and aggressive navy of Japan, from the Japan which has been steadily provoked and irritated by our dumb and dangerous habit of interfering in matters which are none of our concern. We scolded and hectored Japan about her aggressions in Manchuria and took the haughty stand that never, never would we countenance her seizure of Manchuria. Well, I don't think that Manchuria is any of our business. I think we have brought the Japanese from irritation to hot resentment, and finally to cold anger, the kind of mood out of which war springs so easily.

The penalty for trying to protect a broken and disorganized China may very aptly be a war to protect California and our Pacific Coast. There is very little question but that the Navy takes that point of view. Otherwise why should our entire naval strength have been taken from the Atlantic and concentrated in the Pacific?

The truth is, Japan has taken the bit in her teeth. She has launched a Napoleonic adventure. She has drawn cards and staked her future on the most desperate gamble of modern times. She is determined to stand or fall on her success in building a new empire in the heart of Asia. She has practically served notice that she will fight Russia if Russia interferes, and she has more than hinted that she will fight the United States if the United States interferes. Her navy today is regarded by competent authorities as stronger in modern ships than our own. She has speed, guns, intrepidity, leadership, and an absolutely fatalistic confidence in victory. A million Japanese soldiers and sailors—two million—would die with shouts of joy if their dying could ensure greater glory for their Emperor and greater power for their country.

* * *

A SHORT time ago the New York Times carried a cablegram from Tokio which was a revelation of the spirit which fires Japanese soldiers. Sub-lieutenant Jinroku Nishio had been taken prisoner by the Chinese. His capture was unavoidable and his surrender was honorable. But in the Japanese point of view he was a disgraced man. And so, when he was released, he opened an artery with his sword and died, a self-imposed penalty for his disgrace. Only a little while before that, a Major Kuga shot himself after having been liberated by the Chinese. And a young officer's wife committed suicide in order that her husband, departing to fight in Manchuria, might be free from any drag on his mind that she would suffer if he were killed in battle.

Those incidents reveal the indomitable resolution of a people who consider surrender or defeat a disgrace to be wiped out only by death. You don't find that spirit in pacifistic China, and that is why the Chinese hordes have been crushed or swept aside by the Japanese military machine. I don't think for a moment that Japan could whip the United States in war (though it is plain that the Japanese think so). I think Japan would lose in the long run. But there will be hell along the Pacific Coast if war comes, with our shrunken and depleted Navy. And with Japan running amok those dispatches from Washington, heralding a further reduction of ships and men and the virtual wiping out of the Marine Corps, make anxious reading.

* * *

MILITARISM is detestable and war is horrible. But the pacifists who mouth these scarecrow words shut their eyes to the plain facts of the times we are living in. An idealistic and pacifistic naval policy, under the urge of economy, would weaken us fearfully as a world power. The Army has been reduced to a skeleton, against the warnings and pleadings of the very men we were so eager to praise and reward a few years ago. The air defense of the country is menaced.

The whole attitude might be tolerable if we were living under the Beatitudes, or with even reasonable adherence to the Ten Commandments. But we are not. No nation is bursting with love for any other nation. No country loves her neighbor as herself. Geographical grand larceny flourishes and murder is being waged on a grand scale upon at least three continents.

The danger of a world war probably more acute today than ever seemed before the fatal shot was fired at Sarajevo. The day may come—and come soon—when the American people, contemplating the stripped bones of Navy, Army and Marine Corps, will remember the words of Balaam's ass: The Lord opened the mouth of the ass, and she said unto Balaam, "What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times?"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

That two-fisted human fighting for America in Washington—you've got to hand it to him.

Whatever you may think of his political party, he's proving himself a 100 per cent man. And that isn't merely because he's working hard and putting out some mighty good ideas. It's proven, even more, by the fact that he admits he can blunder as well as succeed.

It takes a big person—a very big person—to admit he can, and sometimes does, blunder. And the greater a leader's strength, the harder it is to make such an admission—the bigger his soul if he does make it.

Franklin Roosevelt's soul is that big. He can take it as well as dish it out. As he took it in that May 7 radio speech. Remember? "I DO NOT DENY," said he, "THAT WE MAY MAKE MISTAKES—I HAVE NO EXPECTATION OF MAKING A HIT EVERY TIME I COME TO BAT—WHAT I SEEK IS THE HIGHEST POSSIBLE BATTING AVERAGE.

The highest possible batting average. That's a good goal for any life. But it takes a brave spirit to accept that as a goal.

FOR MOST OF US WON'T ACCEPT A FAIR AVERAGE.

IF WE CAN'T HAVE A PERFECT SCORE, WE DON'T WANT TO PLAY AT ALL!

And that isn't because we have such a great love of perfection.

IT'S BECAUSE WE CAN'T STAND THE STING OF IMPERFECTION.

It's such fun and so comfortable to be in the right. It takes very little spine to sustain success—which is the main reason why most successful people speedily lose whatever spine they have.

But it isn't fun to be in the wrong. No matter how noble the motive, failure is always a pain in the neck. Maybe God knows you did your darnedest. But to the proletariat you're just another flop—and that's mighty hard to take. So very, very hard, that most of us won't take it. Instead, we will tell any lie, commit any shabby trick, to escape criticism.

BUT NO LIFE CAN EVER BE STRONG OR USEFUL OR WORTHY OF CONFIDENCE THAT DOESN'T RISK MISTAKES, MAKE MISTAKES, ADMIT MISTAKES.

How big is your life?

It's as big as your own eagerness to take a chance even if it ends in humiliating failure.

How large is your spirit?

It's as large as your own willingness to admit that failure after it's made.

Take a chance with yourself! Make a fool of yourself! Admit it, like a sport! Then go ahead to the next adventure!

There's the creed of a Big Modern. There's the creed of that man sitting in the White House—and he's living it through, down to the last game grin!

I saw that man as he came flying through to the Chicago convention—sat within a few feet of him as he spoke in acknowledgment of his nomination. Bucking the clouds—that was no new stunt for him. Many a cloud had he bucked in those terrible months of paralysis. And the mark was on him still. Steel clamps around his instep—

BUT NO STEEL CLAMPS ON HIS SOUL!

That man's soul could stand on its own—and with one look, you knew it. He loved life—and he would risk it. He had spunk—and he would use it [illegible] ld use it wrong, sometim[illegible]

BUT HE WASN'T AFRAID TO BE IN THE WRONG.

When you get that far, partner—YOU'RE BORN!
